Introduction

Ready for PET is for students of English who are preparing to take the University of Cambridge Preliminary English Test (PET). Ready for PET will get you ready for this test in three important ways. First, it will give you practice in doing the kinds of exercises you will do in the test. Then, it will give you advice on how you can do your best in these exercises. Finally, it will help you learn the vocabulary you need to do the writing and speaking exercises fluently. In this way, you can feel confident about your English when you do the test.

You can use Ready for PET in your English class with your teacher, or you can use it to get ready for the test by yourself.

What is the Preliminary English Test (PET)?

The University of Cambridge has tests for students of English at five different levels, from beginners to very advanced students.

PET is at level 2 and is for lower intermediate students. PET tests your reading, writing, listening and speaking. You get 25% of the total marks for the test for each of these four skills. There are three different papers.

Paper 1 is Reading and Writing and takes 1 hour and 30 minutes. In this paper, there are five reading parts and three writing parts. In the reading part of the paper, you have to read some texts and answer some questions on each one. For these questions, you answer by choosing A, B, C, or D. In the writing part of the paper, you have to do a short grammar exercise, fill in a form and then write a letter. This is a summary of the Reading and Writing paper:

Paper 1: Reading and Writing (1 hour 30 minutes)
	Type of text	Type of question	Number of questions and marks
Reading
Part 1	five signs or notices	reading comprehension: multiple choice	5
Part 2	eight short texts	reading comprehension: matching	5
Part 3	one text	reading comprehension: correct/not correct	10
Part 4	one text	reading comprehension: multiple choice	5
Part 5	one text	vocabulary and grammar: multiple choice	10
Writing
Part 1		grammar	5
Part 2		filling in a form	10
Part 3		writing a letter	10

Paper 2 is Listening and takes about 30 minutes. There are four parts to the paper. You have to listen to a recording and answer some questions. For the questions for three parts, you answer by choosing A, B, C, or D, and for one part you write down a few words or numbers. You hear each part of the recording twice. This is a summary of the Listening paper:

Paper 2: Listening (approximately 30 minutes)
	Type of text	Type of question	Number of questions and marks
Part 1	seven short recordings (one or two people speaking)	multiple choice pictures	7
Part 2	one person speaking	multiple choice	6
Part 3	one person speaking	writing down words	6
Part 4	two people speaking	correct/not correct	6

Paper 3 is Speaking and takes 10–12 minutes. There are four parts to the paper. You do the Speaking test with another student. In the Speaking test, you and your partner talk to an examiner and to each other, while another examiner listens to you. The examiner will ask you some questions and give you some instructions about what you should talk about. In two parts, you have some pictures to talk about. This is a summary of the Speaking paper:

Paper 3: Speaking (10–12 minutes)
Part 1	You and your partner ask and answer questions about yourselves.
Part 2	You and your partner look at some pictures showing a situation and talk about it together.
Part 3	You and your partner take it in turns to describe a photograph each.
Part 4	You and your partner have a conversation about the subject (eg holidays) of your photos.

You will find more detailed information about each part of all three papers in the different lessons of Ready for PET.

How Ready for PET is organized

There are ten units in Ready for PET and each unit has two lessons. In each unit, you will find exercises to practise the reading, writing, listening and speaking skills, and the vocabulary and grammar you will need in PET. In each lesson of Units 1–8, there is detailed information and advice about one particular part of the test, and in Units 9–10 you can revise all the advice that has gone before. Throughout the book there are Get ready boxes containing clear, helpful exam tips.

At the end of the book there are two PET practice tests. When you do these, you will experience what it is like taking the real test. You will see how much time you have to do each question and you will find out which parts of the test you need to practise more.

When you’ve worked through Ready for PET, you’ll know what to expect in every part of the test, and you’ll have the language you need to do the test well.

For students studying alone

If you are preparing for PET without a teacher, Ready for PET will help you. You should use Ready for PET at the same time as your general English coursebook. Your coursebook will develop your knowledge of English, and Ready for PET will give you the special practice you need for the test exercises.

There is a special 'with key' edition of Ready for PET which has a key to exercises and tapescripts of the listening texts at the back. When you have finished each exercise, check your answers with the key. Don't look at the key until you have done each exercise. If necessary, you can use a dictionary to help you with unknown words, but always try to guess the meaning of words first. You should also see if you can answer the questions without knowing the difficult words.

The texts of the listening exercises are on cassette. In the PET Listening test, you hear each listening text twice, so when you are practising with these exercises, rewind the tape and listen again before checking your answers. If you don't understand something you can look at the tapescript, but never do this until you have listened to the tape twice.

There are many writing exercises in Ready for PET. It's useful if you can ask a teacher to correct these for you, but it doesn't matter if this isn't possible. Just doing the writing is good practice. Always make sure you follow the instructions exactly and check your own work carefully.

There are also many speaking exercises in the book. It's difficult to do speaking exercises if you're studying alone, but it's important that you get speaking practice. Remember, 25% of the marks for the whole of PET are for the Speaking test, so if possible, do the speaking exercises with another student. If you can't do this, do the exercises by yourself, speaking into a cassette recorder. Then listen to yourself speaking and think of ways in which you could do the exercise better. Don't worry about making mistakes, but try to express your ideas clearly.

On pages 66–91, there are two practice tests. You should try to do at least one of these like a real test. Only take the amount of time allowed for the test, and do it without any dictionary or notes to help you.

Before you start, decide how many hours a week you can spend studying with Ready for PET and keep to this decision. It is better to study regularly for short periods than to try and do everything just before the day of the test.

The PET preparation diary on the opposite page will help you to organize your study. Fill in the date you start your PET preparation at the top, and the date you will take PET at the bottom. Then work out how many days or weeks you have to complete each unit of this book. When you have completed a unit, write the date in the space provided, and decide how well you have done in the different practice exercises in that unit (self-assessment). In the 'Study notes' section you can write anything which will help you. For example, you may want to make a note of some exercises you want to look at again, or some exercises which you haven't had time to do and plan to work on later. You should organize your study in the way which best suits you in the time you have available before you take PET.

2 David and Victoria have just met at a party. Complete the gaps in their conversation using the phrases below. Write the correct letters in the spaces.

David: Hello. I'm David.

Victoria: (1)

David: Yes, I'm one of his friends too, and we play football together.
What do you study?

Victoria: (2)

David: I've finished college, actually, and I'm working as a windsurfing instructor.

Victoria: (3)

David: That doesn't matter. You could learn.

Victoria: (4)

David: So am I. I'm running a course which starts next week. Would you be interested in joining?

Victoria: (5)

Use five of these phrases to complete Victoria's part of the conversation.

A English. Have you finished college?

B Yes, I suppose so. But what I'm really interested in is sailing.

C Hi. I'm Victoria. I'm a friend of Tom's from college.

D Hello, I'm Victoria. I'm really interested in football.

E I'm doing languages. What about you?

F Oh, I'm really interested in watersports, but I'm not very good at windsurfing.

G Oh... I might be... it depends.

3 Which two didn't you use? Now listen and check.

4 When you meet someone of your own age for the first time:

- what questions do you ask them?
- what are good things to talk about?
- what do you tell them about yourself?

4 Writing

You have decided to join an English-language club on the Internet. Write a brief description of yourself for the database. You can write up to 100 words.

Remember to include:

- your personal details, for example, name and age
- what you do/study
- the things that you are interested in

5 Listening

Listen to these people giving personal information. As you listen, make a note of their names, addresses and telephone numbers.

What activities do you do while listening? (9)

Which famous English-speaking person would you like us to interview on the radio? (10)

Thank you for answering our questions!

Get ready for PET Writing Part 2

- 1 You should complete the questionnaire giving real information about yourself. However, if you never listen to the radio, imagine that you do and invent answers to questions 6–10.
- 2 Write about one to four words (or figures) in each space.
- 3 For question 2, don't forget to include the name of your country.
- 4 For question 3, if, for example, you come from Spain, your nationality is Spanish. If you come from Brazil, your nationality is Brazilian. Make sure you spell your nationality correctly and use a capital letter.
- 5 For question 5, write what you do. For example, student, accountant, or unemployed.
- 6 Look at the questionnaire below. None of the answers is satisfactory. Why not?

the classroom	number of classes per week	what she's learnt

Get ready for PET Speaking Part 1

- 1 In the exam you have to talk to your partner.
- 2 Before the exam, you need lots of practice in asking questions correctly.
- 3 When you answer questions, say what you think and explain why.
- 4 Make the conversation interesting, add extra information, ask questions, and react to what your partner says.

3 Speaking

1 Look at this situation.

A young friend of yours wants to learn a new language in his free time. He has a small amount of money to spend on this new hobby. First, talk about the things he can buy to help him learn the language. Then, say which will be the best use of his money.

Get ready for PET Speaking Part 2

- 1 Listen to the instructions. Are you talking about yourself or somebody else?
- 2 Speak to your partner, not to the examiner.
- 3 Remember to listen to your partner and respond to what (s)he says.
- 4 Say what you think and explain why you think it.

Examples:

I think x is a good idea because...

I think x is better than y because...

I think (s)he should buy x because...

I think the best thing (for him/her) to buy is x because...

2 Pietro and Valerie are doing exercise 3.1. Complete the gaps in their conversation using the phrases below. Write the correct letters in the spaces.

Valerie: So, our friend wants to learn a new language?

Pietro: (1)

Valerie: No, he can't. Let's start by talking about which of them will be useful for him.

Pietro: (2)

Valerie: OK. Shall we start with this one, the dictionary?

Pietro: (3)

Valerie: Yes, I agree, and it's also good for checking spelling. But what about a textbook? They're useful too.

Pietro: (4)

Valerie: Possibly. Or he may get one free when he pays for the course.

Pietro: (5)

Use five of these phrases to complete Pietro's part of the conversation.

- A Oh yes, that's a good point.
- B I don't like them very much.
- C Yes they are, but maybe he won't need one because he'll have a teacher.
- D Would you like a dictionary or a textbook?
- E OK, then afterwards we can decide which one he should buy.
- F That's right, and he's only got £20 to spend, so he can't buy all these things, can he?
- G Yes, I think he should buy one of those, because it's very useful if you don't know what words mean.

3 Which two phrases didn't you use? Now listen and check.

4 Listening

- Look at these five statements.
- Listen to Tim and Janet talking about the courses they are doing in their free time.
- Decide if each statement is correct or incorrect.
- If you think it is correct, put a tick (✓) in the box under A for YES. If you think it is not correct, put a tick (✓) in the box under B for No.

3 Reading

The people in 1–5 all want to buy a book.

- Look at the descriptions of eight books (A–H).
- Decide which one would be most suitable for each person.

- 1 Laura is looking for a book for her grandson's fifth birthday present. Preferably, it should be about space travel or animals and be a story she can read to him many times.

- 2 Moira's 14-year-old daughter loves science fiction videos. Moira wants to encourage her to read more by giving her a book which will hold her attention.

- 3 Fiona, like everyone in her family, is very interested in the cinema and enjoys reading about it. She wants a book that will give her all the gossip about film stars past and present.

- 4 James, who is 15, is looking for something to pass the time on a long plane journey. He'd like to read an adventure story which brings a period of history to life.

- 5 Gerry likes mystery stories which are full of suspense and excitement. He'd prefer to buy a book by a new writer.

This week's bargain books

A The Meeting

This exciting novel is aimed at teenagers but adults will enjoy it, too. It's the 16th century and Per, the farm boy, rescues a princess. There are marvellous chases, battle scenes and romantic meetings – you couldn't ask for more thrilling action in a story, or a more realistic picture of the past.

B Stealing Scenes

Starting at the age of five, the writer of this amusing autobiography has had a long and successful career as an actress on stage and screen. She takes us into her world of lights and cameras and tells the secrets of famous people she has known.

C The Bucketful of Dinosaurs

When Harry finds a bucketful of dinosaurs, he's delighted and takes them everywhere he goes until one day he leaves them on a train. How will he prove that the dinosaurs belong to him? Very young children will never get tired of listening to this charming adventure.

D Blood Rain

In this seventh book in the series about an Italian police inspector, the hero investigates a murder. The victim? Maybe just a friendless nobody, or perhaps the son of the country's most powerful criminal. Can the inspector manage both to find the murderer and to stay alive?

E Hex Shadows

This story is set in the year 2367 when Britain is a part of the cruel European Federation. Hexes, human computers who were created in the late 21st century, are now hunted down as enemies of the Federation. This is an exciting, fast-moving story which teenagers will love.

F Space Age

Designed with the fact-hungry child in mind, this gives information about stars, galaxies, astronauts and spaceships. It will bring the universe to life and make science and technology fun for those between five and ten years old.

G Stormy Weather

This thriller is the first from the pen of a young Canadian. It follows the story of Dale, a meteorologist who is invited on a small plane to watch a thunderstorm. Dale soon discovers that not all dangers come from nature, and to save his life he must find the answers to some deadly questions.

H Shoot!

For more than 20 years, this has been recognized as the best guide to the movies. This latest edition gives details and opinions about more than 22,000 films. It tells you about video availability, which films are suitable for family viewing, and the prizes films have won.

- 1 Look at the information about Laura. Underline the words that are important about her.
Have you underlined: grandson's fifth birthday, space travel or animals and read... many times?
- 2 Which book would be suitable for a child of five (grandson's fifth birthday)? Are A, B or E suitable? Why not?
What about C and F? Why? (very young children, those between five and ten years old)
- 3 Are C and F about space travel or animals? Remember, dinosaurs are animals.
- 4 C and F can't both be suitable. Which one is unsuitable? Why? So which is the most suitable book for Laura?
- 5 Now do the same for the other people.

4 Vocabulary

Harry had a bucketful of dinosaurs. Complete these sentences in an interesting way.

5 Writing

Write this letter:

- You have an English friend called Lucy.
- Last week, Lucy lent you her favourite book, but while you had the book it was damaged.
- Now you want to write a short letter to Lucy about the damaged book.
- In your letter, apologize for the damage, explain how it happened, and offer to do something about it. Write about 100 words.

Dear Lucy,

Something terrible has happened.

Here are some useful phrases that you can use in your writing.

To apologize to someone, you can write:

*I'm very sorry I didn't look after your book very well.
Please forgive me.*

To explain the order in which something happened, you can write:

*First (this happened), next (that happened), then

To offer to do something for someone, you can write:

*I'll buy you a new one.
I can mend it for you.
If you like, I'll give you mine.
Let me help you.*

1 How many of these questions do you answer with 'Yes'?

- Are you interested in wildlife and beautiful scenery?
- Do you enjoy camping?
- Do you prefer to go on holiday with a large group of people?
- Would you like to travel in foreign countries?

If you've answered 'Yes' four times, then you'd probably like the kind of holiday shown below. Do you agree? Why or why not?

2 Read the text to decide if each statement is correct or incorrect.

- 1 In a safari truck, passengers take it in turns to sit next to a window.
- 2 Safari trucks are able to travel over all types of roads.
- 3 Safari team leaders have a minimum of 12 months' touring experience.
- 4 The second driver is as experienced as the team leader.
- 5 Each truck comes supplied with all the food needed for the trip.
- 6 Everyone is expected to help get meals ready.
- 7 What people pay for their food depends on how much they eat.
- 8 There is always enough clean drinking water.
- 9 Campers have plenty of space in their tents.
- 10 Hot showers are provided for campers wherever they stop for the night.

If you want to get really close to the wildlife and scenery of Africa, then a Safari Holiday offers the most excitement and best value for money.

The Right Trucks for Africa

Each of our safari trucks is a safe, reliable vehicle which is suited to African travel conditions and allows you to fully enjoy the areas visited. Every seat is a window seat and the sides of the truck can be rolled up to provide a wide space for looking out. We use four-wheel-drive vehicles because roads can be rough or get washed away, and we don't want to be prevented from visiting interesting areas.

The Safari Team

Three of our employees go on each safari trip, one of whom is the team leader. All safari team leaders are fully trained and have worked for at least a year on a wide variety of trips in Africa before they lead their first safari. The team leader is a driver, mechanic, guide, diplomat and general expert on Africa. He is helped by a second driver, usually a team leader in training. The third member of the team, the cook, is as important as the leader. He or she sees that all cooking and camp tasks are completed as smoothly as possible.

Good Food

Safari Holidays are famous for their open-fire cooking. We stop regularly to buy fresh fruit, vegetables and meat in local markets and we also have a good supply of things like tea, coffee, dried milk and tinned food in the truck. All the members of the tour lend a hand with the food preparation and washing-up, under the experienced eye of the team cook. At the beginning of each trip, everyone, including the safari team members, pays the same amount of money into the safari purse and this covers food expenses. All water carried on the truck is safe to drink and we make sure it never runs out.

Quality Camping Equipment

Each truck carries everything needed for the trip. This includes four-person tents, used for only two people, air beds, mosquito nets, camp chairs, a fire grill for campfire cooking and all necessary cooking equipment, a cool box for storing fresh food, binoculars, books on Africa and a first-aid kit.

Accommodation

On Safari Holidays, we sometimes camp in an official campsite and sometimes we put up our tents in wild areas. Some campsites have very basic or no facilities, while at others hot showers and cold drinks are available. At the start or finish of tours, we usually have a night in a hotel. These are clean, comfortable and reasonably priced.

Get ready for PET Reading Part 3

- 1 Don't worry about the meaning of every word. You don't have to understand every word in the text, only the ones which help you do the task.
- 2 Use the headings to help you find the answers. In which paragraphs can you find the answers to statements 4, 6, and 9?
- 3 Underline the words in the text which help you with each statement. What words will you underline for statements 1, 3, and 8?
- 4 Decide if the words in the text and the statement have the same meaning. Look at number 1. Does Passengers take it in turns to sit next to a window mean the same as Every seat is a window seat? What about number 2? Does the statement mean the same as the sentence which begins We use four-wheel-drive vehicles...?

4 Grammar

There are several ways to say when something happens.

Examples:

Safari drivers must work for a year before they can become team leaders.

Safari drivers can become team leaders after they have worked for a year.

Safari drivers can't become team leaders until they have worked for a year.

When the campers have put up their tents, they start cooking dinner.

The campers start cooking dinner as soon as they have put up their tents.

Safari members make a lot of new friends while they're on holiday.

Safari members make a lot of new friends during their holiday.

Finish the second sentence so that it means the same as the first.

- 1 Learn to ski before you go on a winter holiday in the mountains.
Don't go on a winter holiday in the mountains until
- 2 When we arrived at the hotel, we immediately went for a swim.
We went for a swim as
- 3 We went sightseeing after lunch.
We went sightseeing during
- 4 During my holiday in Paris, I spoke a lot of French.
I spoke a lot of French while I
- 5 Don't book your holiday until you've seen my photos of Africa.
You must see my photos of Africa before

5 Vocabulary

hotel countryside

You can use the words in the box when you're talking about holidays. Divide them into the six groups.

Transport	Accommodation	Scenery	Activities	Things to pack	Souvenirs
car	hotel	beach	swimming	sunglasses	postcards

Think of words which describe the kind of holiday you like most. Use a dictionary to help you. Add the words to the table.

6 Speaking

Talk about the kind of holidays you like and don't like.

Just the job

1 Speaking

Look at the people in the photo. They're all going to work.

- What do you think each person does?
- Which person earns the highest salary?
- Which person gets on well with his or her colleagues?
- Which person is responsible for a large staff?
- Which person is planning to go on strike?

2 Vocabulary

1 Many people have to study for several years before they take up a profession or job. For example, an architect has studied architecture, and a doctor has studied medicine. What have these people studied?

Profession	Subject studied architect	architecture
doctor	medicine lawyer artist
cook engineer tourist guide hairdresser journalist business man/woman actor/actress chemist biologist physicist musician

2 Look at these verbs. You can make nouns by changing the end of each one. Complete the table.

Verb	Noun
apply	application organize qualify decide operate employ	employment advertise govern manage retire insure succeed

Use the pairs of words to make sentences.

Example:

If you want to apply for a job, you have to fill in an application form.

3 Listening

1 You will hear four women talking about their jobs. Listen and complete the information in the table.

Speaker	Clothes	Equipment	Place	Activity
1				controlling traffic
2			advertising agency
3		microscope

- 1 Read the questions quickly before you hear the tape, so you know what to listen for.
- 2 You will hear the recording twice. If you miss the answer to a question, don't worry. Forget that question and think about the next one. You can find the answer when you hear the tape for a second time.
- 3 The answer to a question may not be in exactly the same words as the ones you hear. For example, what's the answer to question 2? What words does Amanda use to express this idea?
- 4 For each question, A, B, C and D will seem possible, but only one will be right. For example, what is the answer to question 5? Amanda talks about the other kinds of transport but they are not how she gets to work. What does she say about each kind of transport?
- 5 Remember to check all your answers when you listen to the tape for a second time.

House and home

1 Vocabulary

1 Which rooms do you have in your house?

dining room	kitchen	bedroom	garage

Begin your letter like this:

Dear Sam,

I want to tell you about two people I met at a party last Saturday.

3 Reading

1 Generally, how old are people when they first a) learn to read? b) go to university? Read the article about a boy who has done these things at a younger age than most people, and then answer the questions.

The most difficult thing for university student Shaun Rogers is opening his classroom door. Shaun can't do this without help because he's only six years old. He's the youngest person ever to study at Rochester University in New York. Shaun began reading at two, by the age of five was regularly corresponding with university professors and will shortly complete his first book. 'I love learning,' says Shaun. 'My hero is the scientist Albert Einstein because he never combed his hair or wore socks.'

Psychologists have found it difficult to test Shaun's intelligence because it goes beyond what they usually measure. Shaun's mother first realized her son was different when he kept crying at playschool because he was bored with the children's games. She started teaching him at home after finding that local schools were not prepared for children who learnt at Shaun's speed. Now Shaun is studying geography at Rochester University and using the Internet to complete his high school studies.

However, some psychologists warn that too much study can prevent a child from developing normally. 'I don't care how brilliant the kid is, six-year-olds have to play with their friends,' says Dr Brian Wood. Mrs Rogers disagrees that her son's time is completely taken up by school work. 'He loves the violin and has many outdoor interests, such as camping, fishing and swimming, just like other boys his age.'

- 1 What is the writer trying to do in the text?
 - A advise parents about their children's education
 - B compare the development of normal and clever children
 - C encourage students to enter university at a young age
 - D interest people in the life of an unusual child
- 2 What can a reader find out from this text?
 - A who Shaun's friends are
 - B when Shaun did an intelligence test
 - C what Shaun's hobbies are
 - D how well Shaun plays the violin
- 3 Why did Shaun's mother decide to educate him at home?
 - A because she couldn't find a suitable school for him
 - B because his school wouldn't let him use the Internet
 - C because his teachers were unkind and made him cry
 - D because he didn't get on with the other children
- 4 What does Dr Wood think about Shaun?
 - A He isn't really any cleverer than other six-year-olds.
 - B He should spend more time having fun with other children.
 - C He will have to study harder to succeed at university.
 - D He can help his friends to do better at school.

5 Which of these is Mrs Rogers talking about Shaun?

- A 'My son gets bored easily if he doesn't have other children to play games or go swimming with him.'
- B 'My son loves his studies and fortunately there are many children of his own age in his class who share his interests.'
- C 'What makes my son different from other children is that he started studying earlier and learns things much more quickly.'
- D 'Like most young boys, my son often looks untidy and spends more time using the Internet than doing his homework.'

Get ready for PET Reading Part 4

1 The first question on this kind of reading text asks you about the writer's purpose in writing the text.

Has the writer of the text about Shaun succeeded in her/his purpose? In other words, has s/he interested you in Shaun's life?

2 In this kind of reading text, you have to understand people's attitudes and opinions as well as factual information. From this text, what do you understand about:

- Shaun's attitude to studying?
 - Dr Wood's opinion about what six-year-old children need to do?
 - Mrs Rogers' opinion about the amount of time her son spends studying?
- 3 In some of the questions in this kind of reading text, you have to look for the answer in more than one place. Look at question 5 and underline the two places in the text which give you the correct answer.

2 Match the writer's purposes with the sentences.

- 1 to recommend something
- 2 to compare two things
- 3 to complain about something
- 4 to explain something
- 5 to warn against something

- A Couples who decide to adopt a child should be prepared for the time when the child starts to ask difficult questions about the birth parents.
- B Why do people using mobile phones in public places imagine everyone is interested in their conversations and speak in very loud voices?
- C If, like me, you enjoy a film which keeps you sitting on the edge of your seat, then you shouldn't miss this one.
- D I felt close to my grandmother because she always met me from school and listened while I described the events of my day.
- E Children with several brothers and sisters may feel differently from an only child when it comes to the school holidays.

4 Grammar

Finish the second sentence so that it means the same as the first.

- 1 That teacher is very patient with her students.
That is the teacher
- 2 Shaun is too weak to open the classroom door.
Shaun isn't.....
- 3 In our class, only a few students have curly hair.

2 Listening

Get ready for PET Listening Part 3

- 1 In Part 3 of the PET Listening test, you have to listen and write the missing words in the gaps on the question paper.
- 2 The information on the page may be presented in different ways. Make sure you know what to do. Read the information on the page carefully and think about the type of information that is missing.
- 3 You don't have to understand every word – just listen for the missing information.
- 4 You will hear the words you need to write on the tape and you don't need to change them in any way. Don't worry if you're not sure how to spell the words correctly, but make sure you write clearly.
- 5 Don't write too much. One or two words is usually enough.

1 Look at the notes about Orford Castle. Some information is missing.

- You will hear a recorded message about the castle.
- For each question, fill in the missing information in the numbered space.

ORFORD CASTLE

Opening time: (1)
 Closing time: 4 pm
 Price for adults: £2.30
 Price for children: (2)
 Telephone number: (3) 01394

In this example, the words on the left tell you what information you are listening for. Some of the information has already been completed. You only have to fill in the missing information where there is a number in brackets and a dotted line.

2 Look at the notes about Framlingham Castle. Some information is missing.

- You will hear a recorded message about the castle.
- For each question, fill in the missing information in the numbered space.

FRAMLINGHAM CASTLE

When you can go there:

Open between April and (1)

Open every day from 10.00 am to

What you can do there:

Walk around the (3)

Visit the (4)

In this example, the information is organized under headings. Again, some of the information is given and you just fill in the missing words.

3 Look at the notes about Castle Rising. Some information is missing.

- You will hear a recorded message about the castle.
- For each question, fill in the missing information in the numbered space.

CASTLE RISING

You can visit the castle any day between
 (1) and Sunday.

There is a free (2) to give you information about the castle.

In the giftshop, you can buy a
 (3) as a souvenir of your visit.

In this example, the information about the castle is presented in the form of sentences. So, once again, some of the information is given and you just fill in the missing words.

3 Reading

Look at the statements about the trip to Arundel Castle. Read the text and decide if each statement is correct or incorrect.

- 1 Arundel Castle is in the same town as the Albion Hotel.
- 2 If you go on the trip, you may miss your evening meal at the hotel.
- 3 There is no charge for the journey to Arundel.
- 4 Arundel Castle is next to the river, in the centre of the town.
- 5 All of the castle buildings are less than 1,000 years old.
- 6 Part of the castle is in a poor condition.
- 7 Part of the castle is used as a private house.
- 8 It is necessary to book a table if you want to have lunch at the castle.
- 9 Afternoon tea at the castle is not very expensive.
- 10 To go on the trip, you have to reserve a place one day in advance.

 BRITANNIA HOLIDAYS
Extra trip to Arundel Castle: Wednesday

Dear Holiday-maker,

I hope that you are enjoying your visit to the Albion Hotel. I'm writing to tell you about an extra trip we are arranging for Wednesday afternoon. We'll be going to Arundel Castle, which is a tourist attraction about 40 miles from here. A coach will be leaving at 11 am and returning in time for your evening meal at 7 pm. The kitchen has been informed so if we're late for any reason, they'll wait for us. Please remember this is not part of your package so, although the coach is free, there is an entrance fee of £7.00 if you want to visit the castle.

The town of Arundel is very pretty, with pleasant walks down by the river and some interesting old shops. The castle stands on a hill outside the town and can be seen from miles around. There has been a castle on this site for almost 1,000 years, but the present building is not that old, so it's certainly not an old ruin. The castle buildings are used as a home by the present owners, but quite a large part is open to the public.

Among the things to see at the castle are some lovely rooms. The library has a wonderful ceiling and there is a beautiful bedroom, once used by members of the royal family. There is furniture dating from the 16th century and a fine collection of old clocks, which shouldn't be missed. The picture gallery is also very interesting and has paintings by famous artists such as Canaletto and Gainsborough.

We will arrive in Arundel at lunchtime and the castle has its own restaurant, which serves excellent home-made lunches. If a group of you would like to pre-book, we can arrange a discount for you. If not, you can decide when you arrive and there are always plenty of free tables. For those of you who prefer a lighter meal, traditional English afternoon tea is served in the restaurant from 3.00 pm at a very reasonable price.

So, if you would like to join us on our trip to Arundel, please ask at Reception by Tuesday lunchtime at the latest, and your name will be added to the list. Have a nice day.

Get ready for PET Reading Part 1

1 In Part 1 of the PET Reading test, there are five multiple-choice (A, B, C, or D) questions.

2 Remember that notices may be:

- telling you what to do or what not to do.
- telling you what is available.
- giving you information about things.

3 This is how to choose the correct explanation.

- First, look at the sign and imagine how you would explain it to a friend.
- Then look at the four explanations and choose the one which is closest to what you would say.
- Finally, check the other explanations and find words or phrases in the notice that tell you that these explanations are not correct.

2 Look at this notice. Choose the correct explanation, A, B, C or D.

*Available 1st July.
One-bedroom furnished flat.
Reasonable rent.
Convenient for shops and buses.*

- A I'm looking for somewhere to live.
- B I'm looking for furniture for a flat.
- C I'm looking for someone to live in a flat.
- D I'm looking for someone who wants to buy a flat.

The answer to this question is C.

Which words tell you that this is the answer?

Which words tell you that A is not the answer?

Which words tell you that B is not the answer?

Which words tell you that D is not the answer?

3 Look at these notices and decide which is the correct explanation, A, B, C or D. Think about why your answer is correct and why the other explanations are not correct.

PLEASE SPEAK

- A You are not allowed to talk here.
- B You can only stay here if you are studying.
- C You should try not to disturb people.
- D You may only speak in certain parts of the library.

- A Have you lost your ticket?
 B Does anybody else want to come?
 C Have you paid for your ticket?
 D Can anyone sell me a ticket?

- A You can help yourself if you are hungry.
 B Sit down and a waiter will come to serve you.
 C You can buy drinks here, but not food.
 D You can get a light meal here.

- A You can only park here if you work here.
 B You can only park here at certain times.
 C You can only park here for short periods.
 D You can only park here if you book in advance.

- A Please go to the office before you leave.
 B Please call the office to make an appointment.
 C Please go to the office when you first come here.
 D Please call the office if you cannot visit us.

4 Writing

1 In PET Writing Part 3, you are asked to write a letter to an English-speaking friend. Look at this example writing task.

- On your birthday recently, you received a present from an English-speaking friend.
- Now you are writing a letter to this friend.
- Thank your friend for the present, invite your friend to visit a new shopping centre with you, and describe the shopping centre.
- Write about 100 words.

2 This is the letter one student wrote. Write the missing words.

Dear Chris,

Thank you very [1] for the birthday present [2] sent me. It [3] kind of you to remember [4] birthday. The sweater [5] me perfectly and I love the colour. I'm going [6] use the money my grandmother gave me to buy some new trousers to go [7] it.

Have you [8] to the new shopping centre yet? Why don't [9] go together this Saturday? I could come [10] your house at about 3 o'clock and then we could [11] the bus from the end [12] your street.

I know you'll like [13] shopping centre. It has a [14] of really good clothes shops, great music stores, and [15] enormous bookstore. There's a café [16] we can have ice cream, and, [17] we've got any money left, we [18] see a film at the cinema there.

I [19] you can come. Phone me or [20] me an e-mail.

Love,
Andrea

- How does Andrea thank Chris? What does Andrea say about the sweater?
- How does Andrea invite Chris?
- Look at these sentences. Find three invitations, one acceptance, and one refusal.
Please come to the shopping centre with me.
I'd really like you to come to the shopping centre with me.
I'd love to go to the shopping centre with you.
Would you like to come to the shopping centre with me?
I'm afraid I can't go to the shopping centre with you.
- You make arrangements when you give an invitation. What arrangements does Andrea suggest?
- At the end of a letter, you write one or two 'goodbye' sentences.
How does Andrea show the letter includes an invitation?
What other 'goodbye' sentence does Andrea write?
- Look at these sentences. Find four 'goodbye' sentences and one 'hello' sentence.
Please write soon.
I'm sorry I haven't written for a long time.
Thank you again for the lovely present.
Give my love/best wishes to your family.
See you soon.
- At the end of a letter, you always sign your name. What does Andrea write before the signature? Look at these phrases. Find two from an informal letter and one from a formal one.
Yours sincerely,
Best wishes,
Yours,

Get ready for PET Writing Part 3

- 1 Read the instructions carefully and imagine yourself in the situation.
- 2 In your letter, you are told to do three things. For example, in the letter to Chris, you have to thank, invite and describe. Make sure you follow the instructions for all three of them.
- 3 Your letter will look good if you write it in separate paragraphs, as Andrea has done. Start each paragraph on a new line.
- 4 Remember to write a 'goodbye' sentence and to sign your name.
- 5 Try not to write fewer than 100 words, but don't write many more than 100.
- 6 When you've written your letter, check it carefully. Make sure you've followed all the instructions. Correct any grammar and spelling mistakes.

3 Write this letter.

- You spent last Saturday with an English-speaking friend and this friend has just sent you some photos of the day.
- Now you are writing a letter to this friend.
- Thank your friend for the photos, invite your friend to visit a local tourist attraction with you next weekend, and describe what you can see and do there.
- Write about 100 words.

Dear Lesley,

I've just received the photos you took last Saturday.

Another thing is that the city/country is better for...

I'm afraid I don't agree with you because...

Yes, you're right, but I still think...

Get ready for PET Speaking Part 3

- 1 In Part 3 of the PET Speaking test, you have to talk about a photograph which shows an everyday situation.
- 2 You have to tell the examiner what you can see in the picture. You talk for less than a minute.

- 3 Remember:
 - start immediately, and keep talking – don't stop and think.
 - talk to the examiner, not your partner.
 - talk about everything you can see.
 - say if you like the photograph or not.
 - if you don't know a word, don't stop – talk about something else.
 - listen when your partner is talking.

5 When you talk about the photograph, use these ideas to help you.

- 1 Talk about the place in the photograph.
 - Is it indoors or outdoors?
 - Is it in a house or another building?
 - What type of place is it?

Get ready for PET Speaking Part 4

- 1 In Part 4 of the PET Speaking test, you have a conversation with your partner. You only have a few minutes for the task.
- 2 The examiner tells you what to talk about, but does not ask you any questions.
- 3 The topic of Part 4 is the same as the one in the pictures in Part 3.

4 Remember:

- talk to your partner, not to the examiner
- ask your partner questions
- listen and respond to what your partner says
- don't talk for too long, and give your partner a chance to speak.

3 Look at the photographs again and listen to the examiner's instructions for the Part 4 task. What is the topic of the conversation? Make a list of the things you can talk about and the questions you can ask your partner. Think about how to begin the conversation.

Have the conversation with another student.

4 Listen to two students beginning the task. As you listen, think about:

- how they begin
- how long each person speaks for
- how they show interest in what each other says

5 Work with another student and do this Part 4 task. Don't talk for too long without involving your partner! Remember to ask questions and show interest. Use some of these phrases.

Really?

That's interesting because...

So do I!

I like, don't you?

Me too, and another thing is...

I agree with you about that.

What about you?

2 Reading

1 Read this text about teenagers. Choose the correct word, A, B, C or D, for each space.

PERSONAL SPACE

More and more people live in large cities these days and this means that it is becoming more and more difficult to find space and time for ourselves. But for many people, personal privacy is very important. In many homes, a few minutes in the bathroom is all the privacy that is (1)

Teenagers especially need their own personal space at home where they can feel relaxed and private. But, of course, not all teenagers are (2) enough to have a room of their own. Where space is short, they often have to (3) a bedroom with a brother or sister. In that case, it's a good (4) for them to have a special area or corner of the room to (5) their own. It's especially important for young people to have somewhere to (6) their personal things. This may or may not be a tidy place and it is not a good idea for parents to try and tell teenagers how to (7) their space as this is (8) to lead to arguments. Parents can, however, (9) sure that there are enough storage spaces such as shelves, cupboards and boxes. This will (10) the teenager to keep their space tidy if they want to.

- B It is possible even when space is limited.
- C It's a waste of time trying to be tidy.
- D Parents should make their children be tidy.

3 Listening

Get ready for PET Listening Part 4

1 Part 4 of the PET Listening test is always a conversation between two people. They will be giving their opinions about something, and agreeing or disagreeing with each other.

2 Remember to read the instructions carefully to find out:

- who is talking
 - where they are
 - what they are talking about.
- This will help you to imagine the situation and understand what they say.

3 Remember to read the statements on the question paper carefully to:

- make sure you know whose opinion the statement is about
 - check if the statement matches the text or not.
- 4 You may not understand all the words in the text. Don't worry, you only have to answer six questions with YES or NO. If you're not sure, guess. You have a 50 per cent chance of being right!

1 Read the instructions for this Part 4 task.

- Look at the six statements for this part.
- You will hear a conversation between a man, Bob, and a woman, Mary. They are talking about their teenage children.
- Decide if you think each statement is correct or incorrect.
- If you think it is correct, put a tick (✓) in the box under A for YES. If you think it is incorrect, put a tick (✓) in the box under B for NO.

2 Now listen and complete the task.

- 1 Mary's house is too small for Matthew to have his own room.
- 2 Matthew is a lot younger than his brother.
- 3 Bob wanted to spend more time alone as a teenager.
- 4 Matthew would like to have his own computer.

The wide world

1 Reading

- 1 Would you like to tour a foreign country on a bicycle? Which countries do you think it would be good to visit in this way? Would tourists enjoy travelling through your country by bike?
- 2 Read the statements about cycling in Sri Lanka. Then read the text and decide if each statement is correct or incorrect.
 - 1 More people in Sri Lanka ride a mountain bike than any other kind of bike.
 - 2 The writer says that you can go a satisfactory distance each day on a bike.
 - 3 The writer says a bicycle is a restful way of travelling through Sri Lanka.
 - 4 The canals provide water for rice growing in spaces in the jungle.
 - 5 The writer admired the colours of the countryside.

On two wheels in a green land

It is often said that the best way to see a country is to use the method of transport which is traditional in that particular place. So people should see Argentina on horseback, Nepal on foot and the US by car. If this is true, then a bicycle is the perfect way to visit Sri Lanka. Although the 18-speed mountain bike I used is not an everyday sight, more traditional models are popular all over the country.

Sharing the same kind of transport as local people changes the way you see the place. You are travelling at a speed that somehow fits the scenery – not so slow that you only see a small area each day, and not so fast that the details of the countryside are missed. Better still, you can stop whenever you want to listen to the birds or a waterfall, talk to people, smell their cooking or take a photo. However, this doesn't mean cycling in Sri Lanka is relaxing. If you want to see the whole country, you have to leave the towns and villages and cycle through jungle, where the temperature is 37 degrees, cross streams, climb hills and go over paths which are made of mud, rock or sand.

The most pleasant paths in the jungle follow the irrigation canals. These carry water into the bright green rice fields which appear at regular intervals among the trees. During the afternoon, groups of children, farm workers and water buffalo all come to swim in the canals. Then, when you climb from the jungle up into the hilly area in the centre of the country, you see every hillside is covered with neat rows of tea bushes in another brilliant shade of green. In fact, the whole country is covered in more different and beautiful shades of green than I ever thought possible.

Now I'm wondering where to ride my bike next – perhaps alongside the canals of The Netherlands, or through the city streets of China...

Get ready for PET Writing Part 1

- 1 This part is a test of your grammar.
Everything you write must be correct, but don't worry because you only have to write a few words.
- 2 The second sentence must have the same meaning as the first sentence.
- 3 There are several different kinds of changes that you have to make, but they aren't difficult. For example, sometimes you have to:
 - find words with the opposite meaning. (See 1.1 above.)
 - change the order of the words. (See 1.2 above.)
 - change the tense of the verb. (See 1.4 above.)
 - change reported speech to direct speech. (See 1.5 above.)
 - make a passive sentence into an active one. (See 2.1 above.)
 - change the way you compare two things. (See 2.2 above.)
- 4 Remember to copy any words from the first sentence very carefully! For example in 1.2 above, did you copy across the desert correctly?

What do you like to do in your school holidays?

- These people are all looking for a school holiday activity.
- Read the descriptions of eight school holiday activities.
- Decide which activity (letters A-H) would be most suitable for each person (numbers 1-5).

- 1 Gwen is 18 and wants to take her younger brothers and sisters, aged between eight and 15, somewhere where they can get close to animals. She's just failed her driving test.

- 2 Matthew would like to take his daughter somewhere special on her sixth birthday, but he's only free in the afternoon. She loves hearing stories about animals but is frightened of real ones.

- 3 Lindsey has 11-year-old twin boys who hate sitting still. She wants to take them somewhere they can enjoy themselves safely all day while she goes to work.

- 4 Lewis is 15 and wants to do something exciting for the day with some friends from the school swimming team. They're keen to do something connected with either music or sport.

- 5 Jenny's going to look after her grandchildren, aged ten and seven, for the day. She can't afford to spend any money, but she'd like them to have some entertainment before she takes them home for lunch.

Holiday Fun

for Young People

A Pineapple Theatre Every day at 3 o'clock, young children (4–7 years) can watch 'Stardog'. The fun dog from space invents things to help earth people. At 5 o'clock, a group of 10–16-year-olds presents 'Football Fever', a play about young sports stars. All tickets £3.

B Queen's Arts Centre A day-long course for children (9–13 years) introduces the art of telling stories through music and poetry. Use your own history to make a musical piece. Younger children (4–8 years) may use rubbish to make musical instruments and then play them. No charge for entrance.

C Museum Gardens Circus skills workshop for children (7–11 years). Try juggling, rope walking and putting on clown make-up. Or watch Tiptop Theatre tell the story of a Native American boy and his horse. Both programmes 10–12 am. Entrance free.

D Sunshine Safari We have three floors of slides, swings, rope bridges and other adventure activities. Young adventurers can join a tiger hunt or swim with crocodiles. It all seems very real! Leave your children (3–14 years) in the care of our trained staff. £35 per day, lunch extra.

E Balloon flight See the countryside without having to drive! Our gas-filled balloon is tied to the ground and doesn't actually travel, but the views are fantastic. Price: £12 adult, £7.50 child. No under 5s, no children under 16 without an adult.

F Sea Life Centre Discover facts about life under the sea and watch many varieties of fish. The three-hour tour includes handling starfish, feeding sharks and swimming with dolphins. Adults £4.95, children £3.50.

G Making waves This adventurous programme for 12–18-year-olds gives you a chance to try your skills in a sailing boat, a canoe and a motor boat for just £12 a day. Full instruction is given. You must be a good swimmer and agree to follow all safety rules.

H Paradise Animal Park Drive your car through the park and get close to some of the world's most beautiful and dangerous animals. Younger visitors can have fun in the play area, while there is excitement for older children in the adventure playground with its 10-metre free-fall slide. Family ticket £25.

Get ready for PET Reading paper

- 1 You have 1 hour and 30 minutes for the Reading and Writing paper. Plan your time carefully.
- 2 There are five reading parts to the paper. Each part has a different kind of reading text with its own questions.
- 3 You can get 35 marks for the Reading paper, one mark for each question.
- 4 In the exam you get a question paper and an answer sheet (see p.92-3). You can make notes on the question paper but you must mark all your answers on the answer sheet.
- 5 You must use pencil on the answer sheet. Take a pencil, pencil sharpener and rubber to the exam.
- 6 Read the texts carefully but don't worry if there are words you don't understand. You probably don't need to know them to answer the questions.
- 7 Mark one letter for each question. To make a change, rub it out carefully and mark the new answer clearly.
- 8 If there is a question you can't answer, leave it and go back to it later.
- 9 Near the end of the test time, check your answers and make sure you have marked an answer for everything. If you don't know something, guess – you may be right!

Read the text and questions. For each question, decide which is the correct answer, A, B, C or D.

I'm sure I'm not the only person my age (15) who hates going to the dentist. Channel 4's late-night documentary Open wide last Tuesday was excellent for people like me. However, none of my school friends watched it because they didn't know it was on. Why can't television companies let us know about such important programmes in advance?

This programme was important because it showed how methods for helping people with toothache have developed over the centuries. If you think visiting the dentist today is an uncomfortable experience, just be grateful you didn't live 200 years ago! Then, the programme told us, the only cure for toothache was removing the tooth. There weren't any dentists, so the person who cut your hair also pulled out your bad teeth, and there was nothing to stop you feeling the pain.

The programme has also completely changed my attitude to looking after my teeth. My parents were always saying to me things like, 'Don't eat too many sweets,' and, 'Brush your teeth after meals,' but I never paid much attention. Now I've seen what damage sugar can do, especially if I don't use a toothbrush regularly, I'm going to change my habits. Many people would benefit from a repeat of this programme.

Sophie Ashley, Oxford

Get ready for PET Speaking paper

- 1 You have 10–12 minutes for the Speaking paper.
- 2 You take the test with another student who is your partner. There are two examiners: one tells you what to do and the other one listens. Remember to speak clearly so both examiners can hear you.
- 3 There are four parts to the paper: talking about yourself, a situation, a photograph, and discussing a wider theme.
- 4 You can get 25 marks for the Speaking paper. You get marks for how well you communicate with your partner and for your pronunciation. There are also some marks for grammar and vocabulary.
- 5 Listen carefully to the examiner's instructions. If you are not sure what to do, ask the examiner to repeat them.
- 6 In Parts 1, 2 and 4, talk to your partner – not the examiner.
- 7 In Parts 2 and 3 the pictures are there to help you. Talk about what you can see and don't stop after you have talked about one thing. If you can't remember the word for something, don't worry. You can describe the thing or talk about something else.
- 8 Try to make the test easier for your partner and the examiner by being relaxed and friendly. Remember to ask your partner questions, show an interest in what they say, and give them a chance to speak.
- 9 There is more information about this paper in the Get ready boxes in this book. Make sure you read them again before the exam.

3 Practise this Part 2 task with a friend. Remember to talk about all the pictures, and don't decide too soon!

The examiner says:

I'm going to describe a situation to you. A friend is going away to study in another town. She will be living on her own in a student flat. She has some money to spend on one piece of electrical equipment, but she doesn't know what to buy. Talk together about the different things she can buy, and then say which will be best.

4 In the Speaking test you have to read out your candidate number. Practise reading out these numbers:

- 1 61225 0143 2 43189 9876 3 90906 5539

5 You will be asked to spell a word in Part 1 of the test. Spell these things:

- 1 your family name
- 2 your first name
- 3 the street/district/city where you live
- 4 the country you come from
- 5 the name of the school where you study

2 Reading

Read the text below and choose the correct word, A, B, C or D, for each space.

THE RECIPE FOR GOOD COMMUNICATION

How many people do you communicate with in a day? Probably a lot more (1) you did ten years ago. With a few pieces of equipment, we can 'talk' to people in more and more ways, not (2) face-to-face and on the phone, but also via the Internet. It is very important, therefore, (3) everyone to try and improve their communication skills. Despite all the technological advances of (4) years, the art of good conversation is still at the heart of successful communication. (5) it's a good idea to remember the four golden rules of good communication. Firstly, be as clear as you can. Misunderstandings arise if we don't say exactly (6) we mean. Secondly, we have to work (7) at listening. Pay attention to what the other person is saying. Thirdly, ask (8) people what they think, don't only tell them what you think. And finally show respect for other people, give them time to say what they want, and (9) interest in what they say.

If you (10) these rules, you will be a good communicator.

PART 2

Questions 6–10

- The people below all want to go on a guided walk.
- On the next page, there are eight descriptions of guided walks.
- Decide which walk (letters A–H) would be the most suitable for each person (numbers 6–10).
- For each of these numbers mark the correct letter on your answer sheet.

Example answer:

0	A	B	C	D	E	F	G	H

Julia has three children under 12. They all like short walks, which always make them feel hungry and keen to stop for a snack. Julia wants to encourage the children's interest in nature and history.

Russell wants a morning walk which will give him the chance to find something to bring back to show his biology teacher. He has to complete some work about the seashore for her.

Harry likes to go on long walks along paths which less serious walkers may find difficult. He's interested in the birds and plants you can find beside rivers.

Marcia feels that the natural environment is in danger and likes the idea of a walk which encourages people to care for nature. She enjoys studying different varieties of wild plants.

10

Isabel is looking for a walk in the countryside she can do after studying all day. She'd like to have the opportunity to have something to eat or drink with the other walkers.

Guided walks

- A This 10-kilometre walk goes along the river valley and up into the hills, where there are wonderful views of the countryside and opportunities to watch birds as they fly south for the winter. Some paths are steep and can get muddy after rain. 8 am start; bring your own lunch.
- B We leave at sunset to walk through the woods and look for birds and animals that come out after dark. Bring a torch or candle in a jar. The walk ends two hours later with refreshments in the village where the children's writer Mary Tandy has lived for many years.
- C This leisurely walk (three hours) is led by a well-known local history professor. He will show you where the Romans first landed in this country, describe how the port grew in the 17th century, and take you round the historic castle.
- D This short walk takes you along the beach where you can look at sea life which has been left behind in rock pools. Bring a net and container if you have them. Starting times (morning, afternoon or evening) depend on the movement of the sea. Please check in advance.
- E Take an easy walk through the fields and woods of the little-known Silver River Valley, which is rich in wild flowers. Sorry, no picking! Your guide will inform you about plans to keep this area free from building development and tell you what you can do to help. Mornings only, three hours.
- F Discover the wildlife and history of the coast area by walking along the cliff-top path with a knowledgeable guide. This may be done as one long walk (seven hours) or, if you prefer something less tiring, the same ground can be covered on three shorter afternoon walks.
- G A fun walk with beach games, beginning at 3 pm. Look for hidden treasure among the rocks and win a prize. Children under 12 must be with a responsible adult. Walkers may also take part in the great beach clean-up. We supply rubbish bags and gloves.
- H This walk is for early risers. Watch the sun come up over the hills and listen to the birds' morning song. Walk the short distance to Pirate's Cliff for a breakfast barbeque overlooking the beach. Here, stories from the past about sailors and their ships lost at sea are brought to life by local actors.

Questions 11–20

- Read the text on the next page to decide if each statement is correct or incorrect.
- If it is correct, mark A on your answer sheet.
- If it is not correct, mark B on your answer sheet.

Example answer:

Part 3
0	A ☐ B ☒

- For the competition, you should take a photograph which shows your opinion of student life.
- The prizes for the winner include the opportunity to work for a time on a newspaper.
- Members of the public will be able to see the winner's work.
- There are over 100 additional prizes.
- You can enter the competition if you are at least 14 and a student.
- Each photographer must enter three different pictures for the competition.
- Everyone should send an envelope with their pictures so they can be sent back.
- You should make sure your photographs reach the judges by 1st October.
- FEO will pay for parents to accompany winners if they are too young to travel alone.
- Photographers will receive money for any of their pictures used in The Daily Times.

COMPETITION

Here are the rules:

- The competition is open to students at secondary schools, and at further education, art and technical colleges in England and Wales.
- Students must be on full-time or part-time courses.
- Students must be aged 14 or over on 1st September this year.
- Three copies of each photograph should be sent in and should be no bigger than 25 x 20 cm.
- Up to five photographs may be sent in by one person.
- If photographers want their work returned, they must provide a stamped addressed envelope.
- The competition organizers will take no responsibility for lost or damaged work.
- Photographs that have already been printed in any newspaper or magazine are not acceptable.
- The final date for entries is 1st October this year. Winners will be announced in The Daily Times on 17th October.
- A parent or guardian must stay with any winner under the age of 18 while in London. All tickets and accommodation costs will be the responsibility of FEO.
- The judges' decisions are final.
- Photographers must agree to have their pictures printed in FEO publications and The Daily Times without payment. The photographer's name will be printed with any picture used in this way.

Send your photographs to:

Photography Competition, PO Box 314,
London E17 6LJ.

Here's some exciting news. The Daily Times newspaper, together with the Further Education Organization (FEO) and The Photographers' Circle, announces a competition for young photographers.

The subject of the competition is 'modern students'. We want your pictures to tell us what it is like to be a student today. Perhaps you think students have a very comfortable life. Or you may believe they have a much harder time at college than former students had. Whatever your feelings, the judges are looking for interesting and original photographs.

The judges will be Ian Scott, the picture editor of The Daily Times, Pat Wilton, director of The Photographers' Circle, and FEO's chief executive, Christine Hall.

The first prize winner will get three days of work experience with The Daily Times in London, a book worth up to £50 from The Photographers' Circle, and £200 to spend on photographic equipment. The Daily Times will print the winning photographs in the newspaper and The Photographers' Circle will include them in an exhibition at their London gallery. The next 12 best photographers will win £100 each to spend on photographic equipment. Their pictures will also be in the FEO's calendar.

THE CARPENTER FAMILY

Charles and Alice Carpenter had ten daughters, two sons and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren. This makes the Carpenters the perfect subjects for A Family Century. The four-part series of programmes shows the family's story from Charles' and Alice's wedding in 1900 to a big family party in 1999.

At first, producer and director Kate O'Driscoll wanted to film a famous family, but she couldn't find a suitable one. The older members of famous families were really boring and couldn't remember anything about the past, she explains. On the other hand, the four remaining Carpenter sisters are excellent storytellers with astonishing memories. The series starts tonight with Madge, Joyce, Sheila and Aline remembering their schooldays in the 1900s. Their father had a good job in the Post Office, but with such a large family there was never enough money. Madge was the only one to go to a good school, which made her look down on her sisters. She calls Joyce 'a pudding', while, in return, Joyce says Madge is 'bossy'.

The women are fascinating, funny and sad, but what makes this series so valuable is the way in which the women's experiences are shown side by side with the social and economic conditions of the day. A Family Century is an enjoyable slice of social history which should not be missed.

21 What is the writer trying to do in the text?

- A describe the problems of living in a large family
- B complain about people who tell boring stories
- C explain the importance of studying history
- D advise people to watch something on television

22 What can a reader learn about the Carpenter sisters from the text?

- A when their parents got married
- B how old they are now
- C what kind of jobs they did
- D how many children they had

23 Why does Madge feel she is better than her sisters?

- A She is the oldest.
- B She had the best education.
- C She has the clearest memory.
- D She has the most money.

24 What, in the writer's opinion, makes A Family Century valuable?

- A It makes you laugh and cry at the same time.
- B It gives ordinary people the chance to speak.
- C It mixes personal stories with historical fact.
- D It isn't afraid to tell the truth about bad times.

25 What did Kate O'Driscoll write when she first contacted the Carpenter family?

A I'm writing a play about the lives of four sisters who grew up in the 1900s. What can you tell me about life then?

B

We're looking for families to take part in a television game show. Can you answer questions about history correctly?

C I'm making a television series about the social history of the last 100 years. Could people in your family talk to us about their lives?

D

I'd like to make a television programme about the history of your famous family. Do you have interesting memories of your schooldays?

PAPER 3 Speaking Test about 12 minutes

PART 1 (2–3 minutes)

Before the test begins the examiner asks you to read out your candidate number. In this part of the test you will have to ask your partner questions about personal details, for example, where he or she lives, goes to school or work, etc. You also have to answer your partner's questions.

At the end of Part 1 the examiner will ask you to spell a word, for example part of your name, address etc.

PART 2 (2–3 minutes)

The examiner says:

I'm going to describe a situation to you.
One of the students in your class is leaving to go and live abroad with his/her family. You would like to give him/her a present on the last day of school. Talk together about the sorts of presents you can give and then decide which will be best. (See p.77.)

PART 3 (3 minutes)

The examiner says:

Now I'm going to give each of you a photograph of people relaxing. Would you show it to your partner and talk about it please. (See p.78.)

PART 4 (3 minutes)

The examiner says:

Your photographs both showed people relaxing. Now I'd like you to talk together about what you do when you want to relax, when you are alone and when you are with friends.

CD-ROMs

A Magic makeover

Have you ever wanted to see whether a new hairstyle would suit you before you visit the hairdresser's? Now you can experiment with hundreds of hairstyles, glasses and make-up fashions. Both men and women can find the perfect face for themselves with this useful tool.

B Write now

Young people (aged 8-18) can develop their writing skills, creativity and storytelling ability by writing about a very important subject: themselves. They are encouraged to write poems, songs, diaries and stories about their family and friends, things they love and hate, their secret hopes and wishes.

C Take off

This is more than just a game because you really learn how to fly a plane or helicopter. You study a detailed instruction guide and practise on screen with sets of flight instruments from a variety of aircraft. Experience taking off and landing at any one of 3,000 airports worldwide.

D Speedkid

Young people aged 3-15 can explore and discover with these educational games. Difficulty levels can be changed to suit any player. Activities range from maths problems to word games, from drawing to language learning, all based around fun with fast cars, high-speed trains and planes.

E Top notes

This is an enormous library of all types of music from the last 80 years. Watch performances, listen to recordings, look at 9,000 album covers and photos, and read articles on 4,000 artists. You can search by artist's name, type of music, or period.

F Choose right

This is an essential guide to making the right career decision. You complete a detailed questionnaire and it tells you what you're good at, including your social, practical, creative and leadership strengths. It then shows you what further education and career choices are open to you.

G Personal trainer

You tell the 'trainer' details about your weight, height, etc, and it will give you a personal fitness and body-shaping programme. Whether you are male or female, young or old, want something difficult or easy, you will find a series of suitable exercises here which will make you look and feel better.

H Master class

This has 50 hours of instruction and will give you the basic skills needed to play the guitar. All beginners can learn to play their favourite songs. You can practise in private, but very soon you'll be confident enough to perform in public. You could even make it your career!

- The distance between Whistler and the sea is less than 150 km.
- The Whistler area is attractive to skiers because there are many steep tracks.
- Skiers may have to wait five minutes for their turn on a lift.
- Skiers should take off their skis before entering Whistler village.
- Plenty of snow falls naturally each year but, if necessary, nature can be helped.
- You have to go from place to place in Whistler village on foot.
- There are more cheap hotels than expensive ones in Whistler village.
- In summer, it's possible to go skiing and play golf on the same day.
- A guide will show you the best way to cycle to the top of the mountain.
- In the mountains, it's too cold to sunbathe or swim in the lakes.

In the spectacular Coast Mountains of British Columbia, just 120 km north of Vancouver and the coast, lies the beautiful village of Whistler.

Winter sports

- The country round Whistler is considered by many to be the number one ski resort in North America for a number of reasons:
- ★ It has the largest skiing area on the continent, with more than 200 marked tracks.
 - ★ It has the two steepest skiing mountains in North America: Blackcomb and Whistler.
 - ★ There are five separate mountain bases, all within five minutes of each other and all with high-speed lifts. This means skiers can reach the ski slopes quickly without ever having to queue for a lift.
 - ★ Visitors have the convenience of being able to ski directly to and from their accommodation in Whistler Village.
 - ★ The winter season runs from November to May, with summer skiing and snowboarding continuing until August.
 - ★ There is an average annual snowfall of 9 m, plus snow-making systems.
 - ★ Additional winter activities include ice-skating, snow-shoeing, paragliding and snowmobiling.

Whistler village

After an exciting day on the slopes, visitors can explore this lovely pedestrian-only village. There are many interesting shops and boutiques, and a variety of places for a drink and a snack, or a delicious meal. Those who are still not tired can dance the night away in a nightclub before going back to rest in one of Whistler's many comfortable hotels and inns. There is a choice of accommodation in all price ranges, though most of it is at the top end of the range.

Summer time

- Whistler, the number one ski resort in North America, shows how enjoyable summer in the mountains can be.
- With four world-class golf courses, Whistler has become popular as a golfing destination. Each course tests the player's skill in a different way, but all have amazing views. The Whistler Golf Club was given a silver medal for its service by Golf Magazine. And remember, it may be summer, but it's still the skiing season in Whistler, so you can ski in the morning and have a game of golf in the afternoon.
- The view from the top of either Blackcomb or Whistler mountains will take your breath away. You can go on a guided nature walk, or just go up in the lift to enjoy mountaintop dining. Other unforgettable experiences are a horseback ride above the clouds, or, for the adventurous, a high-speed guided bike ride down the mountain.
- There are five lakes and numerous rivers in the Whistler valley, so the visitor has many opportunities to fish, swim, windsurf, canoe, or just relax in the sun on a warm, sandy beach.

Tania Moffat, 21, works in her parents' clothes shop with her 18-year-old brother, Rufus. This is what she says:

As children, we used to fight a lot. Rufus did things like steal my diary and read out bits at dinner, but now we've put our childhood differences behind us. Of course, we still argue but these days, because we share an interest in fashion and have common aims for the business, our arguments are positive. Rufus and I manage the shop, while our parents design the clothes we sell. We are often photographed wearing the clothes. Rufus loves to wear things that are unusual or shocking and people come into the shop just to see what he's got on that day. He could become a model in the future.

Our parents got married and had me when they were still teenagers and have brought us up in a free way. When I was a schoolgirl, they often suggested I forgot about my homework and went out instead. When I decided to leave school at 16 and come and work in the shop, they supported me. They knew I had a lot to offer the company, and now they say they couldn't manage without Rufus and me. Their attitude means we all enjoy ourselves, both at home and at work.

PAPER 3 Speaking Test about 12 minutes

PART 1 (2–3 minutes)

Before the test begins the examiner asks you to read out your candidate number. In this part of the test you will have to ask your partner questions about personal details, for example, where he or she lives, goes to school or work, etc. You also have to answer your partner's questions.

At the end of Part 1 the examiner will ask you to spell a word, for example part of your name, address etc.

PART 2 (2–3 minutes)

The examiner says:

I'm going to describe a situation to you.

A family with young children wants to buy an animal to keep as a pet. Talk together about the types of animals which make good pets and decide which will be best for a family with young children. (See p.90.)

PART 3 (3 minutes)

The examiner says:

Now I'm going to give each of you a photograph of people enjoying themselves. Would you show it to your partner and talk about it please. (See p.91.)

PART 4 (3 minutes)

The examiner says:

Your photographs both showed people enjoying themselves. Now I'd like you to talk together about what you do when you want to enjoy yourself, when you are at home and when you are on holiday.

2 Writing (page 9)

Ralf's answers are not satisfactory for the following reasons:

1 This is not a full name. A full name includes, at least, a first name and a surname.

2 An address will probably include a street name and number, a town and a country.

3 The student should write German here, not Germany.

4 The day is missing. The name of the month (July) should have a capital J.

5 This is not an occupation. The answer should be student.

6 This is not a sensible answer because there are fewer than 200 hours in a week.

- 7 This is not a type of programme. If the student never listens to the radio, he should invent a favourite type of programme, eg music, news.
- 8 This is not an answer to the question Where...? If the student never listens to the radio, he should write nowhere or invent an answer, eg in my bedroom.
- 9 This is not an activity. If the student listens to the radio in a car, he should write driving or travelling.
- 10 This is not a sensible answer because this person is dead and could not give a radio interview! A more sensible answer would be, eg Leonardo di Caprio or André Agassi.

3 Grammar (page 11)

- 1 as tidy as yours.

- 2 C and F
No. A is a novel for teenagers and adults; B is an autobiography for adults; E is a science fiction story for teenagers.
C or F may be suitable. C is for very young children and F is for children between five and ten years old.
- 3 C is about animals. F is about space travel.
- 4 F is unsuitable because it is factual and not a story that Laura can read to her grandson many times. The most suitable book is C, because it is for young children and it's about animals.

5 Writing (page 17)

Your letter won't be exactly like this, but it should have an apology, an explanation and an offer.

Model letter:

Dear Lucy,

Something terrible has happened. You remember you lent me 'Rebecca'? Well, I'm afraid it's got very wet. I'm very sorry I didn't look after your book very well.

The book's so exciting I couldn't stop reading it. I was reading it at the bus stop when it started to rain, so I put the book under my jacket. Then the bus came and I slipped as I tried to get on. The book fell out of my jacket, bounced on the pavement and finally landed in a puddle of water.

I know you love this book and I'll buy you a new one as soon as I can. Please forgive me.

Love,
Anna

Example:

This picture shows a young woman in her bedroom. She's packing some things in a plastic suitcase, which is on her bed. There are some clothes already in the suitcase and some more on the bed. The bed has a pink-and-white quilt and a pillow on it. I think the young woman is going abroad on holiday so she probably feels excited, but perhaps she also feels nervous because she doesn't know what's going to happen.

Extra details may also be given.

Example:

The young woman has long dark hair and she's wearing jeans and a green T-shirt. The bedroom is quite small and doesn't have much furniture apart from the bed. I think the windows are in the ceiling. There may be a cupboard in the room but I can't quite see.

- A Hello. My name is John, that's J O H N. And my surname is Rose, that's R O S E. I would like to give you some information about myself. First of all, I live in London and my address is 24, Walton Road. That's Walton W A L T O N, Walton Road in London. So, what else can I tell you? I'm a 16-year-old boy and so I'm still at school and I'm very interested in sport. I'm quite good at football and I also enjoy playing tennis and volleyball. When I'm not playing sport, I like listening to music and watching television.
- B Hello. My name's Amanda Wilson and you spell my first name A M A N D A, Amanda and my surname is Wilson, which is spelt W I L S O N. My name's not really difficult to spell, but people always make mistakes in my address. I live in York, that's Y O R K, at 45 Knight Street which is spelt K N I G H T Street. I'm a 17-year-old English girl and I work as a shop assistant in a large shop in my home city. In my free time, I like to get out of the city, however, and I'm very interested in horse riding and hill walking. I'm not very good at horse riding yet because I only started last year, but I've been hill walking since I was 12 years old. I love it.

- Victoria: I'm doing languages. What about you?
- David: I've finished college, actually, and I'm working as a windsurfing instructor.
- Victoria: Oh, I'm really interested in watersports, but I'm not very good at windsurfing.
- David: That doesn't matter. You could learn.
- Victoria: Yes, I suppose so. But what I'm really interested in is sailing.
- David: So am I. I'm running a course which starts next week. Would you be interested in joining?
- Victoria: Oh... I might be... it depends.

Boy: Hello, Polly. How are your Spanish classes going?

Polly: Oh, OK. The teacher's very nice, but the classes are a bit boring. I really like studying on my own, you know. My dad bought me a Spanish CD for my computer, but actually I prefer the textbook because I'm good at grammar, and the book has got lots of practice exercises. One day, I'd like to be able to listen and understand the words to Spanish pop music, but I'm not good enough for that yet!

Valerie: So, our friend wants to learn a new language?

Pietro: That's right, and he's only got £20 to spend, so he can't buy all these things, can he?

Valerie: No, he can't. Let's start by talking about which of them will be useful for him.

Pietro: OK, then afterwards we can decide which one he should buy.

Valerie: OK. Shall we start with this one, the dictionary?

Pietro: Yes, I think he should buy one of those, because it's very useful if you don't know what words mean.

Valerie: Yes, I agree, and it's also good for checking spelling. But what about a textbook? They're useful too.

Pietro: Yes they are, but maybe he won't need one because he'll have a teacher.

Valerie: Possibly. Or he may get one free when he pays for the course.

Pietro: Oh yes, that's a good point.

4 Listening (page 14)

Tim: Hi Janet. How's your computer course going?

Janet: Oh, I've just had my class, actually. We have them twice a week and each one lasts two hours.

Tim: Gosh. That's long. Doesn't it get boring?

Janet: Well, you need that long to actually do a whole document. It's really good because I can do all sorts of things on my computer that I never even knew existed before.

Tim: I can't say the same for my cookery course.

Janet: Oh, Tim, why not? I thought you were enjoying it.

Tim: Oh it's enjoyable enough, but we just don't seem to make much progress. We spent the whole of last week's lesson learning how to fry an egg.

Janet: Well, it's not an easy thing to do properly, you know.

Tim: Oh I know, but I don't even like eggs.

Janet: Oh poor Tim! So how often is it?

Tim: Just once a week, for an hour and a half.

Janet: And do you get to eat all the things you make?

Tim: Well, you're not meant to eat them there, but you can take them home because you have to buy all the stuff in the first place. It's cakes next week.

Janet: Oh, that sounds fun.

Tim: Oh yes. I'm looking forward to it. But Janet, I wanted to ask you something, actually. Have you learnt how to send e-mails on your course yet?

Janet: Oh yes, we did that in the first week.

Tim: Because I can't get my computer to send them properly, and I was wondering if you'd show me how it's done?

Janet: Well, if you bring me one of your cakes, I suppose I could try.

Tim: Great, well, when I've made them...

3 2 Just the job

I love what I do and I'm very proud of the uniform I wear. I drive around for most of the day but I'm always somewhere in the city centre. My job is controlling the traffic. When I hear there's a traffic problem I go and see what I can do about it. I just use my hands and my voice – no equipment's necessary – except for my car, of course. I couldn't work without that!

I never did well at school. I was only interested in drawing – I was quite good at that. And that's what I do now – drawing. I work in an advertising agency and I do the artwork for advertisements. But I don't use a pencil or paint – it's all done on a computer – that's the only piece of equipment I need. I like being comfortable when I work, so I wear jeans. I don't even own a suit.

This is my first job and I've only been here for a year. My microscope is my most important piece of equipment. I couldn't do my work here in the zoo without it. I love animals but I don't often get to see the ones here! My job is testing. I test all kinds of things – the animals' food, the water they drink, and if they get ill, I test their blood. It's very important that everything here is clean, so I have to wear a white coat over my clothes, and I'm always washing my hands!

Actually, I want to change what I do. I work in a bank, and it's a good job, but I'd like to do something more exciting. Here it's the same thing every day. My job is helping customers. I help customers when they come into the bank and I help them when they phone up. I don't really have any equipment apart from the phone. I spend a lot of time on the phone. I have to wear a suit at work, which I hate – I'd much prefer to wear jeans!

Presenter: ...and today in our series about people who work for themselves, we have Amanda Turner. Good morning, Amanda. Tell us what you do.

Amanda: Hi! Well, basically I'm a cook. Unlike most cooks, I'm not employed by a restaurant but by various recording studios. When musicians are making an album, they have to stay in the studio all day, so I go there and prepare meals for them. I used to cook for dinner parties in people's homes but that wasn't as much fun.

Fortunately, people seem to be satisfied with what I do. When they're recording, musicians want something tasty but quite simple. They don't want to eat a lot or be given unfamiliar dishes. The food has to be good for them because they're always worried about getting ill or putting on weight! I do quite a lot of vegetarian food.

Generally, my job isn't stressful. I only get worried when they forget to tell me how many people will want a meal or they tell me to expect five and then it's fifteen! Often I don't have a proper kitchen to work in, and sometimes the meal is ready long before the musicians have finished playing. But I don't mind that. I know I'm lucky to be my own boss, to do work I enjoy, and to get paid well for it! And I meet all sorts of interesting people. Think of your favourite boy band and I've probably cooked them a meal! But I work with all kinds of musicians, pop and classical, famous and unknown, young and old. I'm happiest when I'm cooking for the young ones. They always really enjoy my food and say nice things about it.

I have a long day. I walk round the market every morning buying vegetables, and then I cycle to the place where I get fresh meat and fish. I have to be at the studios by noon. I don't drive, and anyway it's always difficult to park, so they send a car to pick me up. Going on the bus with all my bags of shopping would be terrible! After cooking, serving and clearing up, I never get home before nine in the evening. My daughter prepares a snack for us while I tell her about the day's music. I also do a cookery page for a monthly magazine, so before I go to bed, I do some work on that. I should write a shopping list for next day, but I'm always too tired!

1
In my room, there's not much furniture. I've got a bed, of course, but I don't have a wardrobe because I keep all my clothes in a chest of drawers. My parents don't like me putting posters on the wall, and for a long time I didn't have any, but I've recently been allowed to put up one or two. My parents bought me a desk to do my homework on, but I don't use it much. I like my room. It's nice.

I don't live in the centre of the city, so I live in a house rather than a block of flats. Although the house is on the edge of the city, the buildings are quite close together and we don't have a garden. One day, I would really like to live in a big house a long way away from other people with lots of trees around it, but the house I live in is near to the school, so for the moment it's alright, and I've got some good friends who live in the house next door.

Boy: Mum, I can't find my calculator.
Mum: Isn't it on your bedside table?
Boy: I've looked there and in the chest of drawers, but it's not there.
Mum: I saw a lot of things pushed under the bed when I was cleaning yesterday. It's probably there. If not, have you looked in the wardrobe?
Boy: Oh, it's OK. I've found it on the floor like you said. But I don't understand how it got there!

Man: Excuse me, I've just missed the 3.35 bus. Can you tell me what time the next one leaves?
Woman: Certainly sir. There's a bus to London at 3.45 and one to Manchester at 4.35.
Man: Oh. I wanted the London bus, actually. I didn't think it would be so soon.
Woman: Yes, there's one at 3.45 and then another at 4.45. But there wasn't one at 3.35, that one was going to Edinburgh, so you haven't missed it really.

Waiter: Would you like to order, madam?
Today's soup is tomato, or we have some cheese and tomato pizza. The other pizzas are all finished, I'm afraid.
Woman: Oh, that's a shame. I want more than a sandwich, but I didn't want to eat too much. Umm... OK then, I'll have chicken and chips, please.
Waiter: I'm sorry, the chicken's finished, but we could do you a burger?
Woman: Oh, really? In that case I'd rather have a sandwich, just plain cheese, please.

Woman: Hello, I've come to cut Susie's hair for her.
Man: Oh yes, come in. She's expecting you.
Woman: I wasn't sure what to bring. I've brought some special shampoo she might like to try, it's very good, and I've got scissors and a comb. But if she wants her hair washed, I might need to borrow something to dry it with, because I'm thinking of blow-drying it.
Man: Oh... I'm afraid we haven't got a hairdryer, but I can give you a towel if you want.

Hello. This is the Orford Castle Information Line. Orford Castle is an 800-year-old building which is located near the sea at Orford in the east of England. The castle opens every day at 10.00 am, and stays open until four o'clock in the afternoon. It takes about one hour to look around the castle and you can climb a spiral staircase to the top of the tower, which is 30 metres high. From there, you can see for miles. Admission prices are as follows: adults £2.30 and children £1.20. Children receive a free Activity Sheet and can find out more about the castle in the interactive CD ROM unit. A full-colour souvenir guide is also available. For more information about Orford Castle, phone 01394 450472 during office hours. Thank you for calling the Orford Castle Information Line.

Hello and welcome to the Framlingham Castle Information Line. Framlingham Castle is open between the months of April and November. The castle dates back to the 12th century and from the outside looks much as it did 800 years ago. The castle opens at 10.00 am and closes at 6.00 pm. Once inside the castle, most people walk around the old walls, from where you get a wonderful view of the surrounding countryside, but there are also a number of other things to see and do. There is also a museum to visit, where you can get lots of information about the castle's history, and a fully interactive audio tour is available for adults and children alike. Admission costs £2.95 for adults and £1.50 for children. Thank you for calling the Framlingham Castle Information line.

Hello and welcome to the Castle Rising Information Line. Castle Rising is open to the public from Wednesday to Sunday each week at this time of year, opening at 10.00 am and closing at 3.30 in the afternoon. Admission costs £2.30 for adults and £1.70 for children. When you enter the castle, you will be given a free leaflet giving you information about its history, and explaining what you can see as you walk round. It takes about an hour to visit the castle, but if the weather's nice, you can bring a picnic to eat in the park and stay as long as you like. There is a small giftshop at the castle where you can buy a souvenir poster to remind you of your visit. We look forward to seeing you at Castle Rising. Thank you for calling.

5 Listening (page 38)

This is Radio London Fun calling all tourists in London! Did you know that East London has some of the most interesting street markets in Europe?

First up, there's Columbia Road market. You can buy flowers here at any one of 50 stalls. And whatever flowers you choose, they won't cost you much!

Next, there's Brick Lane market. Not everything here is new, but there's something for everybody. And if you're looking for a really good souvenir of London, then check out this market's speciality, leather jackets. You'll have to try one on!

Then, there's Petticoat Lane Market, the oldest and most famous of all London's markets. Buy anything here, from fashionable clothes to toys for the children. Come any morning from Monday to Friday, or on Sunday, when the market is at its biggest and most crowded.

Finally, there's Whitechapel market. It's easy to get to because it's right by the underground station, and just across the road from a hospital. This is the place to buy exotic vegetables and spices from Asia.

So, get down to East London now and be part of the fun!

Examiner: Your photographs showed people eating a meal. Now I'd like you to talk together about the type of food you eat when you go out and when you stay at home.

Girl: So, Tom, do you often eat out?

Tom: Sometimes... sometimes I go out for a meal with my family, and sometimes I go with my friends. What about you?

Girl: Yes, me too. What type of restaurant does your family go to?

Tom: Different types, but usually traditional ones. They like to have steak and chips and things like that, but I prefer Italian food...

Girl: Really! So do I. It's much more interesting than English food, isn't it?

Tom: Yes, I agree with you about that, and another thing is that it isn't very expensive.

Girl: That's right. When I go out with my friends, I always go to either an Italian or a Chinese restaurant.

Tom: Yes, me too... and also Thai... have you tried Thai food?

Girl: No, what's it like?

Tom: Well, it's similar to Chinese, but it has different tastes and unusual vegetables.

Girl: Oh, that sounds good!

Tom: Yes, you should try it.

I'm going to tell you how to make tomato owls. First of all, you need some different-sized tomatoes, some big ones and some smaller ones, and a small tin of tuna fish. As well as these two main ingredients, you also need two spoonfuls of mayonnaise, a hard-boiled egg, and some black olives. To give colour, you will also need two spoonfuls of tomato sauce.

You don't have to cook the owls, but to make them you do need some basic equipment. Firstly, you need a mixing bowl to make the mixture in. To make the mixture you need a fork and a spoon, and to cut up the tomatoes and olives you need a fairly sharp knife.

So, now I'm going to tell you how to make the tomato owls. Firstly, take the knife and cut the tomatoes in half. Then take the spoon and use it to take the seeds out of the middle of the tomatoes, so that there's a hole for the mixture to go in. Then put the tuna and the hard-boiled egg into the mixing bowl. Then, using a fork, mix them together. When you have a good mixture, stir in the mayonnaise and the tomato sauce, using a spoon. Now take some of the mixture on the spoon and put it into the bottom half of each tomato. Cut the remaining tomato pieces into triangles to make the owl's mouth and ears, and cut up an olive to make its eyes.

3 Listening (page 46)

- Bob: Hello, Mary, how are you?
- Mary: Oh, hello Bob. Not too bad. We're having one or two problems with our son Matthew.
- Bob: Really? What sort of problems?
- Mary: Well, he wants to have his own bedroom, but we haven't got the space and he doesn't seem to understand.
- Bob: Oh, so he shares with his brother, does he?
- Mary: Yes, but there's not a great age difference, just one year, so you'd think they'd be able to get on together, wouldn't you?
- Bob: I remember I used to hate sharing a bedroom with my older brother. We used to argue all the time. Mostly about privacy, as I remember.
- Mary: Privacy? You mean you wanted more time to be alone?
- Bob: It wasn't that. It was more that I wanted to have my own space. You know, we had one wardrobe, one chest of drawers. I didn't even have one drawer that was all mine, and so my elder brother used to just take all my things if he fancied them.
- Mary: Oh, I see. I wonder if that's Matthew's problem? Because he wanted his own computer, but there's not room for two in the one small bedroom, so we said no, they'd have to share.
- Bob: So who gets to use it all the time?
- Mary: I don't know, but they always seem to be fighting about something, and of course Matthew doesn't have as much homework as his brother, so maybe he doesn't need it so much.
- Bob: Well, they're not only for doing homework on, you know.
- Mary: I know that Bob, and they've got their own television in the room, but Matthew doesn't really seem to like television very much. I don't understand him sometimes.
- Bob: Well, maybe it's because he doesn't get to watch the programmes he likes.
- Mary: Actually, I think he'd rather not have the television in the room. I think I'd better talk to them about these things. Maybe we can arrange things better. Thanks Bob.
- Bob: Don't mention it.

5 Listening (page 47)

- Alice: Oh, hello Harry, how are you?
- Harry: Fine, thanks. But you look a bit miserable. What's the matter?
- Alice: I've been arguing with my mum again, I'm afraid. I feel sorry about it afterwards, but she just annoys me so much.
- Harry: Yeah, I know what you mean. But what have you been arguing about?
- Alice: Oh, the usual thing about my bedroom.
- Harry: Your bedroom?
- Alice: Yeah. She's always telling me to tidy it up, but it's my room, so I don't see why I should have to.
- Harry: And is it really untidy, or is it just that she's really fussy about things like that?
- Alice: Oh, it's untidy all right. I mean, you know, I take my clothes off at night and just leave them where they fall.
- Harry: And you expect your mum to tidy up after you?
- Alice: No, I do it sooner or later because it's not good for your stuff to be left screwed up in a ball, is it? It's just that she wants it done like now, and I'm happy to leave it for a while and do it later, you know, when I feel like it, or when I've got friends coming round.
- Harry: And so you argue?
- Alice: Yeah. She wants me to put everything back in the wardrobe, but I've got so much stuff that it won't all fit anyway.
- Harry: You're lucky. I have to share a wardrobe with my brother. He's always wearing my things without asking me.
- Alice: But don't you each have your own bedroom?
- Harry: We do, but his is very small and you can't get a wardrobe in, so he's always coming in and out of my room to get stuff out of it.
- Alice: Oh, I wouldn't like that.
- Harry: Nor do I. It leads to lots of arguments.

I listened to the weather forecast before we set out and it wasn't encouraging – storms with thunder and lightning and even snow on the hills! Actually, it was a fine, clear day. There was frost on the ground when I woke up and some mist over the fields, but that soon disappeared in the warm sunshine. There were some clouds about, but the wind kept them moving and it didn't rain. All in all, it was a brilliant day!

It was lucky we didn't have far to walk on Saturday. I couldn't help slipping on the snow-covered pavements and the air was freezing! But, really, I like that kind of weather best. It kind of makes me feel alive – not like foggy days, or dull, damp ones when I just want to stay indoors, or very hot and sunny ones which send me to sleep! So it was a great day!

You know what they say about the weather being changeable? Well, it wasn't like that on Saturday! It was one heavy shower after another – just when we thought it was going to dry up, it started pouring again! Still, it was quite warm, though it got cooler in the evening, so we didn't really mind. I heard later there were gales on the coast, so we escaped them! In spite of the weather, we really enjoyed our day!

I've collected several extraordinary animal stories, and I'd like to tell you some of them.

One day, Daisy the cow was peacefully eating grass. Suddenly, a very strong wind blew her up into the air and carried her two kilometres, before landing her safely in a neighbour's field. But that wasn't Daisy's only flight. Five years later, passengers in a bus were amazed to watch as another strong wind lifted Daisy into the air, carried her over their heads, and brought her down on the other side of the road.

You think that's strange? Well, what about Speedy, the cat, and her love of travelling fast? Speedy loves riding on the back of her owner's motorbike and overtaking buses and bicycles. Speedy's owner had to stop her riding on the roof of his car, because it's too dangerous, and he makes her wear a special hard hat for protection when she's on the motorbike.

Another extraordinary cat is Fluffy. Once, when Fluffy was a passenger on a plane, she travelled with the luggage but she escaped from her box. The flight attendants tried to catch her and so did the pilot, but without success. Fluffy travelled backwards and forwards between New York and Los Angeles for 12 days before her owner got her to come out for a nice piece of fish.

Then there's Tom Johnson's pet bird, a pigeon called Pete. Tom drives thousands of kilometres a year, and Pete flies with him. He rides on a stream of air beside the right-hand window of the car, which gives him high speed for little effort, a bit like surfing on a wave. Tom gets anxious that other cars might hit Pete when they pass him, but, apart from that, they both enjoy the long journeys.

Now let me tell you about Rambo, the gorilla. Rambo lives in a zoo and one day a little boy somehow fell into the gorillas' cage. He was hurt and couldn't get up. Rambo made noises to stop the other gorillas coming near the boy, and when he cried, he gently dried the boy's tears with his hand. The way he kept the boy safe has made Rambo famous.

And, finally, let me tell you about another animal that rescued a child. Prince, the dog, lived in a forest on a mountain. One day, he found a little boy half-frozen under a deep pile of snow. He used the heat from his body and his warm tongue to unfreeze the child, and then he carried him on his back to the nearest house.

Man: What do you feel like doing tonight? I'm getting a bit tired of clubbing.

Woman: Yeah, me too. How about going to the open-air concert? The guitarist is meant to be really good.

Man: Oh, I heard that all the tickets were sold out weeks ago, but there's a good film on at the ABC. You know, it's the one that won all the Oscars.

Woman: OK, and if we can't get in, there's always the theatre next door. That's never full, so it's a good idea.

Woman: It's great, this new cinema! Four films on at the same time, and they're all good.

Man: Well, I don't know about that. There's a good thriller on in Screen Number One, or I wouldn't mind seeing the science fiction one, that's meant to be really good.

Woman: Well, I'm not keen on seeing either of those. But how about the one about animals, that's much more my sort of thing than the other one... what is it? Some sort of romantic comedy?

Man: That's right. Oh well, I'm quite happy to go along with your choice.

Man: So, what did you think of it?

Woman: Well, he's a brilliant director, isn't he? All those lovely scenes in the mountains... the camerawork was wonderful.

Man: I thought the actors were good on the whole, although to be honest, I think the storyline, the plot, is so strong that you don't worry so much about the characters. I mean, it is a classic action film, isn't it?

Woman: I absolutely agree with you. I was on the edge of my seat the whole time! You never knew what was going to happen next. That's what really made it for me.

Man: Oh yeah, me too.

5 Listening (page 62)

It's now five to eight and there's just time for one more song before the news, but before I do that, I'd just like to tell you about one or two things coming up later today on your local radio station.

First of all, after the eight o'clock news, at 8.15, we have our Arts Review programme. Debbie Clarke will be telling you about what's on in the region in the coming week, including information about theatre, cinema and concerts. Today Debbie will also have a special guest in the studio, Kevin Jones, who is the drummer with the very successful pop band, Splodge. Kevin will be talking about what it's like to be the drummer rather than the lead singer in a pop band.

That's followed at 8.45 by the weather forecast. Graham Smith will be here to tell you if it's going to be wet or fine for the rest of the week. Let's hope that Graham has some good news for us. After that, at 8.50, a new series begins. Polly Brown has been out and about in the countryside this week talking to people who are interested in wild flowers. And I must say that some of those people really know a great deal about the subject.

After that, at 9.30, we have The Cookery Programme. James Grant will be back with some more delicious recipes, and he'll also be telling us what to look out for when we're buying fresh fruit and vegetables. And finally, at 10.15, we have this morning's radio play. Happy Times it's called, and it tells the story of two children's summer holiday by the seaside and something which happened that was to change their lives forever. Sounds good. So, that's it on your favourite station today. Now up to the news here is Splodge with their latest single, which is called 'Take me'.

RUBRIC = R

Before we start, here is an example.

R: What's the time?

Man: Could you tell me the time please?

Woman: Of course. It's twenty past four.

R: The woman told the man the time. The second picture is correct and the tick has been put in box B below that picture.

Now we are ready to start. Here is a short recording for the first four pictures. Don't forget to put a tick in one of the boxes! Listen carefully...

R: One: Which bus goes to the harbour?

Girl: Excuse me. Do you know which bus goes to the harbour? Is it the number 24 or the number 27?

Man: Oh, I'm not sure. The 24 used to go to the harbour, but I think they changed the route last year. I think it must be the 25 because the 26 goes up the hill, away from the sea, and the 27 is the school bus.

Girl: Oh, I see. Thank you.

R: Two: What can you see at the festival every day?

The Denton Arts Festival is taking place between the 12th and 21st of August this year. There is an exhibition of paintings open daily and a programme of evening activities which offers something different each day, including cinema, drama, music and dance. The festival concludes with an open-air jazz concert on Saturday evening which will be followed by a display of fireworks. A weekly ticket, which gives entry to all the events, costs as little as £20. For further details and booking information, call the box office on Denton 58982.

R: Three: Where does the boy find his keys?

Boy: Mum, I've lost my keys again. But I must have had them to get in the front door last night.

Mum: Yes, I'm sure I saw them next to the telephone, but they're not there now. Are you sure that they're not in your jacket pocket?

Boy: No, I wasn't wearing one last night because it was raining. I had my raincoat on... Oh, it's alright, I've got them... I'd left them in the lock.

Mum: Oh, honestly!

R: Four: What present are they going to buy?

Man: What shall we get Darren and Kylie as a wedding present?

Woman: Well, Kylie's made a list and some people have already chosen things. Aunt Olive is getting them the knives and forks they've asked for, and Darren's mother is getting them a microwave oven. I was thinking of getting either a nice picture to hang on the wall, or some saucepans. What do you think?

Man: Oh, I think something for the kitchen's much safer than a work of art. They may not like it.

Woman: OK then. That's agreed.

R: Five: What is today's soup made from?

Woman: Excuse me, on the menu it says 'soup of the day'. I hope it's not boring old tomato soup. I had mushroom soup here once, and it was excellent. Is that on the menu today?

Waiter: The chef does a range of soups, madam. Today it's chicken, I'm afraid, although he does make the mushroom one sometimes, and we may have some fish soup if you would prefer it?

Woman: No, the soup of the day will be fine, thanks.

R: Six: Which instrument is Lucy playing these days?

Man: How is Lucy getting on with the violin?

Woman: Oh, we've given it to her cousin. She found it much more difficult to play than the guitar, and so she's gone back to playing that instead. She'd like to try the piano next, but they're rather expensive, so she will have to wait a bit until we can afford one. Meanwhile, she's quite happy because with her brother on drums, they can make quite a lot of noise between them.

Man: I bet.

R: Seven: How will John travel to London?

Woman: Is John driving up to London on Sunday?

Man: He's taking the coach, actually. He thought about going by train, but it's too expensive. The plane's actually cheaper than the train these days, but he still can't afford it.

Woman: Well, at least the coach is more relaxing than having to drive in this weather.

Man: That's true.

R: You will hear a woman talking about her work. Put a tick in the correct box for each question.

Kathy: Hello, my name's Kathy Parks and I run my own fashion company in London. I've come to talk to you this evening about my career. After studying economics at college, I got a job as a salesperson with a large airline. It was a great job. I didn't travel as much as the pilots and flight attendants, of course, but I did get to see the world without having to pay for expensive holidays.

That was how I came to go on a marketing trip to China in 1993. At that time, I hadn't thought about starting my own business, and I had no knowledge of the world of fashion. But while I was shopping one day, I came across some wonderful silk material. I bought some home with me and made it into clothes for myself and friends, just for fun.

My friends liked those clothes so much that I decided to go back to China to try and buy some more of the silk. This time, however, the people who sold it said that they were not able to let me have such a small amount again, and that they would only sell it in large quantities. I wasn't sure what to do, but as I had gone all that way, I didn't think I could come home without any material. That was how I came to spend my life's savings on four kilometres of silk.

When I got it back home to London, I gave up my job and started my own business. Working in a friend's garage, I turned that silk into 8,000 silk shirts and 800 silk ties with my own hands. Fortunately for me, they sold very well. And that was the beginning of my fashion business.

I now design and make all sorts of clothes out of silk and other materials and they are very popular. I also draw the patterns that are printed on the material in China before it comes to London. I think my clothes are quite different from others you find on the market and that's why all sorts of people notice them in the shops and buy them, even models, film stars and professional people.

My business is growing all the time. I have now started designing and making handbags and travel goods to match the clothes I make as well. But I don't want the business to become too large, because I think people like the fact that I design everything myself, and that everything is made from the highest quality materials, much of it still imported from China.

R: Look at the information about a holiday in Australia. Some information is missing. You will hear someone talking about his holiday. For each question, fill in the missing information in the numbered spaces.

Man: Good evening. I've come to talk to you this evening about a small island in Australia which I visited last year. Before we see the video, let me tell you something about the island. It's called Dunk island, yes that's D U N K, and it's a tiny dot on the map just off the coast of Queensland in north-eastern Australia.

The easiest way to get to the island is to take a plane from the international airport at Cairns on the mainland. The flight takes around 45 minutes, although if you don't like flying, there's also a coach which comes across on the ferry, but this takes over two hours.

Most of the island is covered in rainforest and it's absolutely beautiful. There is only one place to stay, a hotel which has 147 rooms and is situated right on the beach. It doesn't look as big as it sounds, because most of the rooms are in small buildings surrounded by trees.

Families are welcome at the hotel, which has a very good 'Kids Club' for 3-14 year-olds. The club has activities such as collecting shells, as well as the more usual horse riding and watersports. Every week, what's more, the kids put on their own concert to entertain their parents.

Other things which visitors of all ages can do include boat trips, deep-sea diving lessons, and there's even a chance to study local wildlife with the help of expert guides. If you're looking for a really original souvenir, then there's also a group of artists working on the island. You can visit their studio and buy examples of their work. If all you want is just a T-shirt or baseball cap, however, there are plenty of those for sale in the hotel giftshop.

R: Look at the six statements for this part. You will hear a conversation between two teenage friends, Tom, a boy, and Sally, a girl. Decide if you think each statement is correct or incorrect. If you think it is correct, put a tick in the box under A for YES. If you think it is incorrect, put a tick in the box under B for NO.

Sally: Hello, Tom.

Tom: Hi... Listen, Sally, there's something I need to talk to you about. My mum says that if I want to go on that adventure weekend with the rest of the class, then I've got to raise the money myself.

Sally: Really? But why's she not going to pay for it?

Tom: Well, I guess it's because she had to buy all that extra sports equipment when I changed schools last year, and it was rather expensive, actually.

Sally: But that wasn't your fault. I mean, everyone else's parents are paying.

Tom: Anyway, I guess I'll have to get some work.

Sally: Work! You!

Tom: Alright, don't sound so surprised. I've worked before, you know.

Sally: You mean when you tried to set up that car-cleaning business.

Tom: I know, I didn't make much money, but...

Sally: ...my dad said his car was cleaner before you started!

Tom: Alright, but this time I thought we could put on a show. I'm sure we'd do well.

Sally: What do you mean 'we', and what sort of show?

Tom: A musical show, you know, with jokes and songs. We could charge all the parents to come and see it, and use the money to pay for the adventure weekend.

Sally: But just a minute, my parents are willing to pay for me, and so are everybody else's.

Tom: Oh, that's not the point. If we all raise the money ourselves, think what a good impression it will make. It'll be much easier to ask for other things in the future.

Sally: I'm not so convinced about that. They might just say, 'If you can raise the money for this, then you can do it for other things.'

Tom: But I was counting on you to play the guitar.

Sally: Have you told anyone else about this?

Tom: Not yet, but if you agree I'm sure the others will.

Sally: umm... I'll let you know.

Tom: Oh thanks, Sally.

Notes on the sample Speaking test

Practice Test 1 – Paper 3 Speaking

On the cassette, a sample Speaking test has been recorded. It comes between Practice Test 1 and Practice Test 2, which are both Listening tests. In the recording of the Speaking test, actors play the part of students. They perform the test tasks using PET-level language, but without mistakes of grammar, vocabulary or pronunciation.

Students should use the Speaking test on the tape to help them understand the best way to do the tasks. Remember, the examination tests the ability to speak spontaneously and to interact with another person. This means that it is not possible to learn what to say in advance. It is, however, a good idea to practise and be ready to perform the tasks in the best way.

On the tape, each part of the Speaking test is played separately. The students are using the materials in Practice Test 1 – Speaking on pages 76–8. Students preparing for the PET Speaking test should listen to each part of the tape, think about how the students do each task, and then attempt the same tasks themselves. They should not try to remember actual words, as they will need to give their own opinions and ideas. This will, however, be easier for them once they have heard a model.

For each task, a list of things to listen for is included below. Students can either work individually, or in pairs as a classroom activity. Students may need to listen to each part more than once. They should look at the visual material on pages 77–8 as they listen to Parts 2 and 3.

PART 1

In Part 1, students are told to ask each other questions.

Listen and notice:

- how many questions each student asks
- how long the answers are
- the different ways of asking
- how each student shows interest in what the other says.

Notice also:

- when a number is read out (remember, the number is on the answer sheet)
- when a word has to be spelt.

PART 2

In Part 2, students talk about the situation in the picture.

Listen and notice:

- how many times the instructions are given
- how the students begin
- how long each student speaks for
- how each student shows interest in what the other is saying
- how many of the pictures they talk about
- when they reach a decision.

PART 3

In Part 3, each student talks about a photograph.

Listen and notice:

- the topic of the photographs
- how each student begins
- the type of things they talk about
- what they do if they don't know a word.

PART 4

In Part 4, the students have a discussion on the same topic as Part 3, but giving their own opinions.

Listen and notice:

- the two things the students are asked to talk about
- how they begin
- how long each student speaks
- how each student shows interest in what the other is saying
- how they agree and disagree.

Note: The Speaking tests in Ready for PET are sample tests only. They are not actual UCLES past papers.

RUBRIC = R

R: There are seven questions in this part. For each question there are four pictures and a short recording. For each question, look at the pictures and listen to the recording. Choose the correct picture and put a tick in the box below it.

Before we start, here is an example.

R: What's the time?

Man: Could you tell me the time please?

Woman: Of course. It's twenty past four.

R: The woman told the man the time. The second picture is correct and the tick has been put in box B below that picture.

Now we are ready to start. Here is a short recording for the first four pictures. Don't forget to put a tick in one of the boxes! Listen carefully...

R: One: What did the boy have for lunch today?

Mum: What did you get for lunch at school today?

Boy: Oh it wasn't bad really, there was even a choice. I had chicken and chips, but they also had pizza if you wanted it. Better than the tuna fish sandwiches we had yesterday. And they seem to have realized that people want a proper sweet afterwards, and so there was a nice chocolate cake instead of just the apples we've had before.

R: Two: Which programme will they watch on television?

Girl: What shall we watch on TV this evening?

Boy: There's football, a programme about elephants, a pop concert, or a film about mountain climbing. Which would you like to see?

Girl: Well, I certainly don't want to watch sport, and I've seen that film before. As you only seem to like classical music these days, I suppose that leaves the wildlife. What do you think?

Boy: That's fine for me.

R: Three: What time will the flight to Pisa leave?

Quickjet Airlines regret to announce a further 45-minute delay to flight QJ 35 to Pisa. This flight is now scheduled to depart at 17.55 hours from gate 25. Quickjet wish to apologize to passengers for the delay to their flight, which is due to operational reasons.

R: Four: Which activity did the girl do most of the time?

Boy: So, how was your holiday? Didn't you go to a place with all sorts of watersports?

Girl: It was great, actually. Although I did go swimming one day and there was a chance to do windsurfing if you wanted, it wasn't only watersports. I spent almost all week mountain biking, in fact, and I even got to try horse riding, but never again. I was terrified of falling off the whole time!

R: Five: Which is the missing handbag?

Hello, lost property office... yes... and where did you lose it?... I see... so, it's light-coloured leather, with a long strap and a zip along the top... Well, we've got a number like that. Does it have a zip pocket on the side?... OK, then I think I've got it here. When would you like to collect it?

R: Six: How will they travel this weekend?

Man: I think we should do something different this weekend. I'm bored with watching television. Why don't we get on a bus and go somewhere?

Woman: OK. I'm happy to have a change. How about hiring a motorbike and going down to the coast?

Man: I'd rather hire a car. With so much traffic on the road, I think motorbikes are dangerous.

Woman: OK, anything's better than that cycle ride we did last year. That was exhausting!

R: Seven: Which T-shirt do they decide to buy Sarah?

Boy: Which of these T-shirts shall we get Sarah for her birthday?

Girl: Well, she's got plenty of plain ones, so let's get one with a picture on it. Look, there's one here with kittens on it. That's nice.

Boy: Not for Sarah. She hates cats. But animals are a good idea. Horses, maybe... or... she loves going to the seaside, so how about this

- one of a seabird? Or even better, look, what about this one, with dolphins on it?
- Girl: Oh yes, it's much better than the bird. She'll love that.

- R: You will hear a woman talking about courses at a college. Put a tick in the correct box for each question.

Woman: Good evening. I've come to talk to you about courses at the Further Education College. Some courses are in the evening and some happen during the day. They are all available to anybody over the age of sixteen. Most courses are in practical subjects. In other words, we teach you, or show you, how to do things, so they're a good way of starting a new hobby. There are no examinations or certificates. These courses are meant to be just for fun.

To sign up for a course, you should come along to our Open Day on September the twentieth, or contact the secretary by phone. You pay for your course month by month and there's no deposit, so you don't have to pay anything before the course begins. After your first lesson, you decide whether you want to continue and if you do, you pay for the first month.

We are still offering our very successful foreign-language courses. Both beginner's and intermediate French and Italian are available again, and this year there will also be, for the first time, intermediate as well as beginner's Spanish, plus a completely new course in beginner's Russian.

Cookery courses are also popular. This year we're offering a range, from basic kitchen skills through to advanced cake-making, and courses on how to prepare meals for weddings and other large parties. This year we're adding a course on vegetarian cookery which I think will be very popular. Remember that on all cookery courses, students have to meet the cost of all the food items needed for the recipes.

Finally, many people asked us to include more courses on painting in our programme, and our teachers suggested other practical courses, like making pots, and so on. Although that would be interesting, I'm afraid we don't have the equipment in the college at the moment. There's a free room which could be used, however, and so it's a possibility for the future. Meanwhile, this year what we're doing is a new course in how to paint your own pots.

On the course, we provide white cups, saucers, plates, etc., and you learn how to paint designs on them. By the end of the course, you'll have your own hand-painted set to take home and use. The course will run on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the late afternoon, two hours each day, for the month of October only. If it's popular, another course could begin in the spring. The teacher is an expert in this type of work and I'm sure the course will be fun.

Now, if there are any questions...

- R: Look at the notes about an artist. Some information is missing. You will hear the artist talking about his work. For each question, fill in the missing information in the numbered spaces.

Artist: People often ask me why I decided to become an artist. Actually, it all started when I was a child. I was eight years old and I was getting better after one of those illnesses that children get. I felt alright, but I wasn't allowed to go out and I soon got very bored. I was given some paper and coloured pencils to play with and I started drawing the birds I could see outside in the garden. After that, drawing wildlife became my hobby and later I learnt how to paint, too.

My family was quite poor and, although they allowed me to study art, they weren't able to pay for my training. So when I was at college I started doing paintings of animals, especially lions and tigers, because I knew I could sell them to other students. I used the money I made to buy paints and other equipment.

When I finished college, I decided to make wildlife painting my career. To find customers, I held an exhibition of my work. My father hired an empty furniture shop in my home town and we filled it with my paintings. Fortunately, people liked my work and so we sold lots of paintings. I must say, although he doesn't know a great deal about art, my father turned out to be a great salesman.

I also found that people like wildlife as much as I do, and they also like the way I paint. I try to make the animals look as real as possible and I try to paint them in their natural surroundings. People don't want to see pictures of animals looking sad in cages.

After that exhibition, there were articles about my work in the newspapers and my career had begun.

R: Look at the six statements for this part. You will hear a conversation between two teenage friends, Jon, a boy, and Clare, a girl. Decide if you think each statement is correct or incorrect. If you think it is correct, put a tick in the box under A for YES. If you think it is incorrect, put a tick in the box under B for NO.

Jon: Hello, Clare. How was your holiday?

Clare: Oh, hi Jon. It was great, thanks.

Jon: You'd never been abroad before, had you?

Clare: No, it was alright though, everybody there seemed to speak English, so we didn't have too many problems.

Jon: Not like that place I went to last year. We really had to learn a few foreign words because nobody spoke English at all. If not, we'd never have got anything to eat in the restaurants.

Clare: Oh, where we went, all the menus were translated into English, so it was alright.

Jon: And was the food good?

Clare: OK. We had lunch on the beach most days, because my mum likes preparing picnics and we all enjoyed that, although it was boring getting all the stuff from the supermarket each morning. And then we had to eat out in restaurants in the evenings.

Jon: But didn't you like that?

Clare: Well, I just wanted to have burger and chips because that's my favourite, but my dad said we had to try the local food.

Jon: Well, for me, trying all the foreign food is one of the best bits of going on holiday abroad.

Clare: But I didn't know if I liked it. Some of it was OK, but he made us try something new every evening. I wasn't allowed to have the same thing twice, even when I found something I liked.

Jon: Oh, that's not fair! You should be allowed to choose what you want when you're on holiday. Holidays are meant to be about enjoying yourself.

Clare: That's right! That's what I said! Anyway, I did find some things I liked and he let me have burger and chips on my last night there. Actually, it wasn't very nice compared to what we have at home, so if we go back there again, I'll stick to the local stuff. Especially the fish, it was nice.

Jon: So your dad won in the end?

Clare: In a way.

Examples of student writing

In PET Writing Part 3, students are required to write a letter. (For more details, refer to page 37.)

A student can obtain a maximum of 10 marks for this letter: five for task and five for language. The mark for task reflects how well the student has succeeded in covering the three content points given in the instructions, and whether the message can be understood easily. The mark for language is based on the student's control of structure and vocabulary, and the range of language used. This includes correct spelling and punctuation, and the accurate and appropriate use of a variety of grammatical structures, as well as vocabulary relevant to the topic and linking words. Students at this level are not expected to produce writing which is completely free from errors. A mistake which does not prevent the writer from being understood is considered less serious than a mistake which interferes with communication. Students are given credit for being ambitious in attempting a range of different structures, even if they make some errors.

The following letters were all written by students attempting the Practice Tests on pages 72 and 85.

Note: as the first sentence of the student's letter is provided in the instructions, it is not included in the word count for each letter. Students are asked to write about 100 words.

Letters written for Practice Test 1 – Writing Part 3

Dear Diana,

Thank you for the wonderful evening I had in your house. I had a great time with you, and your family is very kind.

I would like you come and spend an evening with me. I think it would be nice if I first cook the real Italian pasta for you. And then, if you will agree we can watch the video dance course I bought this morning. We will dance until we are too tired!

I would like you enjoy yourself, as much as I did round your house. It was really good fun making the cake and then letting your friend's eat some, it wasn't very nice was it?

Please let me know as soon as possible if you would like to come so I can organize the evening better.

Lots of love
Patrizia

Examiner's comment: very good

This student has completed the task very well. All three points in the instructions have been covered. The student has elaborated on plans for the evening at her house, and the thing she particularly enjoyed about the evening at her friend's house. In organizing her letter, this student has decided to talk about the first point in the instructions last. It is perfectly acceptable to do this (as long as the letter is coherent), although it is advisable to deal with the points in the order they are given in the instructions. The letter has a good closing sentence, even though the tone of it is a little formal. The student signs off with an appropriate phrase ('Lots of love') and a signature.

The student demonstrates good control of language. A range of tenses and structures is used, together with some complex sentence patterns and linking devices ('first', 'and then', 'until', 'as much as', 'so'). There are a few errors (eg 'like you come', 'if you will agree') but these do not impede communication. The phrasing of the invitation is completely appropriate ('I would like you come and spend an evening with me') and there is a good range of vocabulary relevant to the topic (eg 'great time', 'kind', 'cook', 'watch', 'dance', 'enjoy yourself', 'really good fun'). The ideas in the letter are clearly organized into paragraphs.

Dear Richard,

Thank you for the wonderful evening I had in your house. I enjoyed it really a lot especially our water games in the swimming-pool.

I would like to have the recipe of the pankakes your mother baked.

It has been so funny when we made karacke with your father and your mother asked him to cut it out!

It would be great if you could come to my house next week. You can catch the bus no. 978 and I will be at the bus station waiting for you. We can play basket in the park in front of my house, and then listen music or watch TV.

By the way, one thing is absolutely sure: I'm looking forward your visit.

Examiner's comment: good

This is a good attempt at the task. All three content points are covered fully, although the connection between the three things the writer particularly enjoyed is not made clear. There is an effective closing sentence, but the letter lacks a signing off phrase and a signature.

The writer shows fairly good control of language. The phrasing of the invitation is absolutely appropriate ('It would be great if you could come to my house next week'). A range of tenses and structures is used and there are only a few errors, which do not interfere with understanding. The letter could be improved if some linking devices were used to connect the three things the writer particularly enjoyed at the friend's house. At the moment, they are just a list. There is a fair range of appropriate topic vocabulary ('water games', 'recipe', 'baked', 'funny', 'cut it out', 'catch the bus', 'watch TV'). At the start of the letter, there are too many single-sentence paragraphs, but later on the writer attempts to organize ideas more clearly.

Dear Mike,

Thank you for the wonderful evening I had in your house. Your parents are very nice and they have made me feel home. I had a very good time when we have played the computer and we looked the internet. But particularly I was very happy when we have played soccer with your friends in your garden. Now I want to invite you for a day for doing a lot of things together. If you accept the invite we could playing soccer in park or going with motorcycle ride in town. I hope that you'll come.

Antonio

Examiner's comment: adequate

This is a reasonable attempt to cover the task. The letter is a little short (85 words), and, although all three content points are covered, the third one is not dealt with fully. The ideas related to the third point are also not entirely relevant: the instructions ask for plans to spend 'an evening in your home', not a day in the park or town. There is an appropriate closing sentence and signature.

This letter shows some control of language; the meaning is conveyed, but there are a number of errors, especially in the use of the present perfect, simple past tenses and prepositions. The way the invitation is phrased is grammatically flawed ('Now I want to invite you for a day for doing a lot of things together'), although the meaning is clear. Some simple linking devices are used ('and', 'when', 'now'), and there is some appropriate topic vocabulary ('computer', 'internet', 'soccer', 'motorcycle ride'), but generally the language is unambitious. The letter could be improved if the ideas were organized in paragraphs.

Dear Matt,

Thank you for the wonderful evening I had in your house. I enjoy this because we have played any songs with guitars and we have plei football, and we have eaten a lot of pizza. For this, i went to invite you for the after saturday. We will have lunch at Pizza's Way and after then we will met my friends and we will play basketball. See you Saturday, you must come!!

PJ

Examiner's comment: inadequate

Some attempt has been made to achieve the task, but it has not been done adequately. All three content points have been included but, because the letter is so short (62 words), they have not been dealt with fully. The plans related to the invitation are irrelevant, in that they refer to 'lunch' and activities outside the friend's home. An appropriate closing sentence and signature are included.

The student's control of language is erratic. The sentence structure is simple, but there are numerous basic errors, especially in tenses, verb forms and spelling. Some common words are spelt correctly in one place and incorrectly in another (eg 'play'/'plei', 'will'/'wil'). Students should check their work after they have written their letters, to correct simple mistakes for themselves. The wording of the invitation does not make clear what is intended ('i went to invite you for the day after saturday'). The range of vocabulary used is narrow.

Dear Jill,

I want to tell you about my new English teacher. As he come into the class I immediatly had the bad feeling he would make us working hard: he looks so severe, with those thik orrible glasses and his long beard, and he gave us the idea to be so proud that we sat down and no one dared to say a single word.

My classmates and I hope it's only the first impression and we keep saying that it won't be so bad as we begin getting to know each other better, but we miss the teacher we had last year.

I'm looking forward to hearing news about your first day at school and your impressions about your new teachers, hoping they're better than mine!

Love,
Daniela

Examiner's comment: very good

This student has completed the task very well. All three points in the instructions have been covered, and the description of the teacher deals with both his appearance and character. The students' feelings are also fully explained. The description of what happened in the class ('we sat down and no one dared to say a single word') is rather brief, but sufficient. There is an effective closing sentence.

This student uses language confidently and shows good control over it. There are some errors (eg 'make us working') and spelling errors (eg 'thik orrible'), but these do not impede communication. There is a good use of complex sentences, employing a range of tenses (present, past and future) and linking devices ('as', 'but', 'and' 'so proud... that'), as well as appropriate topic vocabulary (eg 'bad feeling', 'working hard', 'severe', 'thik glasses'). The ideas are clearly organized in paragraphs.

Dear Sandy,

How are you? I hope fine. I had your new address from your cousin who live near my house. Thank you for your last letter. It was good to hear from you again. School started back up on the 14th - and it's boring as usual! This year there's a new English Teacher in my class. At first, we supposed, she was dull and hot-tempered with us. Instead, after some days we spent with her, we found her amusing and cheerful. She's always ready to help pupils. Sometimes, we are inattentive during the lesson or we chat about this and that (especially girls) so teacher loses her temper but some minuts later she's again easy-going. She is also a pretty woman so boys (in my class) are very foll for the lesson! In short, we like it. What about you? I hope you had a good teacher too! I must stop now, my mother called me! Write soon. Bye for now.

Yours
Anna

Examiner's comment: good

This student makes a good attempt at the task but, as it is slightly flawed, would probably not achieve maximum marks. The student ignores the first sentence of the letter provided by the instructions and writes seven introductory sentences of her own. This means her letter is over long (162 words). Students are not penalized for writing more than 100 words, but can lose marks for digressing from the topic, as here. On the other hand, the student covers the content points well. The description of the teacher is good and the students' feelings about her can be inferred from this. These feelings are summed up by the sentence 'In short, we like it'. This is an effective way of making sure that a content point has been dealt with satisfactorily. The second content point in the instructions ('explain what happened in the class') has been slightly misunderstood; the student describes the teacher's lessons generally, rather than the 'last English lesson' specifically, which may be penalized. Students should think hard about what the instructions are asking them to do before they start to write, and follow them exactly. The student ends her letter well.

This student uses language confidently and generally shows good control. There are some errors (eg 'live', 'there,s', 'minuts') but, except for one ('are very foll for the lesson') these do not impede communication. She is ambitious in her use of complex sentences and uses a range of structures, tenses and linking devices (eg 'At first', 'after', 'or', 'so', 'some minuts later', 'also', 'In short'), although one of these ('Instead') is slightly inappropriate. She makes effective use of a wide range of appropriate vocabulary (eg 'boring', 'dull and hot-tempered', 'amusing and cheerful', 'inattentive', 'chat', 'loses her temper', 'easy-going'). The letter would make an even better impression if it were divided into paragraphs.

Dear Jane,

I want to tell you about my new English teacher. We were waiting for our old teacher, when she came into the class: scary red hair and green eyes, matched with a yellow lemon dress. You can imagine what happened. We began to laugh and laughed the whole hour! And when she heard us, she began to scream and shout, her face became scarlat red! We really felt excited, she was so funny! But then, she ran out, closed the door, and we didn't see her anymore! What a pity, she was the best teacher we ever had!

Write me soon!
Tina

Examiner's comment: adequate

This student makes a reasonable attempt to deal with the task. All three content points are dealt with in a simple way, and only the second one ('explain what happened in the class') is covered in any detail. The letter is also slightly short (92 words). The student could have given a more detailed description of the teacher or the students' feelings. The meaning is generally clear, although the reader may not be sure what is intended by the last sentence. Is it an attempt at irony? The letter closes appropriately.

The student's control of language is generally sound. A fair range of structures is used, with few errors, and there are some linking devices ('when', 'then', 'and'). Some of the language is very effective ('scary red hair', 'You can imagine what happened', 'she began to scream and shout'), though 'excited' isn't appropriate in the context.

Dear Elizabeth,

I want to tell you about my new English teacher. He isn't as the other. His lessons aren't boring.

He is the youngest teacher of the school and in consequence is a very handsome man.

For this reason all boys hate the new teacher while all girls are folling in love.

Before I hated the English and I always had bad marks while now I love this subject.

So now I hope to improve my English.

Love,
Katia

Examiner's comment: inadequate

This is an inadequate attempt at the task. There is some elaboration about the students' feelings for the teacher, which is good, but the description of him is very brief, and there is no mention of the second content point ('what happened in class'). The student signs off appropriately ('Love, Katia') but ends the letter abruptly, without a friendly closing sentence. The letter is also far too short (68 words).

Because of the shortness of this letter, the student can't get a high mark for language.

Ready for PET

Ready for PET is a new and motivating short course ideal for students preparing for the Cambridge Preliminary English Test. It has a clear and thorough approach to all the tasks found in the exam which ensures that students have the confidence and skills needed to be successful in the various parts of the test.

Ideal for students of all ages, Ready for PET, consolidates students' knowledge of the language and their ability to use it communicatively. It can be used alongside a general language course or on its own for intensive exam preparation.

Key features of the coursebook:

- 10 topic-based units
- Systematic introduction and practice of vocabulary
- Help sections giving advice on all the skills required for the PET exam
- Two complete practice tests
- Sample speaking test on cassette

The with key edition provides a full answer key, tapescripts and sample answers for the writing tasks and recorded interview.
